Hearing on Land-Use

Urge Planning To Save Farms

Comprehensive regional planning for balanced growth of resources and an objective appraisal of tax assessment problems involving farmers were among highlights of suggestions made by speakers Tuesday at the public hearing held by the New York State Commission on Preservation of Agricultural Land at Gov. Clinton Hotel.

The event was the fifth and final in a series of five hearings held in major regions of the state to test statewide opinion on protecting good farmland from urban and other pressures.

Over 150 Attend

The hearing, presided over by Dana Gibson of Hillsdale, a cattleman and member of the commission, drew more than 150 persons representing a variety of agricultural, suburban and urban interests.

The hearing featured four speakers who discussed planning in rural areas, irrigation and water resources, public acquisition of land, and land tax problems in rural areas. Some of the participants spoke from the floor on the special land problems in the Hudson Valley and Southeastern New York.

In his talk, C. David Loeks, president of the Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress, Inc., stressed the need for comprehensive, continuous regional planning with all levels of governmental units and private interests participating.

Such planning, he said, will create a better environment to live in and at the same time it will lead to preservation of good agricultural land.

One big problem is how to gain what he called "political consensus" to implement such regional planning programs.

Part of Plan

"Agriculture should be looked at as a system and it must be a component of the overall regional plan so that agriculture can make its claim on the resources of that region," he said.

Speaking on land tax problems in rural areas, Mrs. Jeanette Kunkler, senior attorney for the State Board of Equalization and Assessment in Albany, said "the answer certainly does not lie in legislation which constitutes blatant tax favoritism."

She stressed that an objective appraisal of the problem must be made while keeping in mind not only the plight of fringe farmers, but the larger problems of coordinated state growth and the welfare of the general public.

William Smiley, a dairy farmer from Middletown, spoke on the public acquisition of land by eminent domain. He called for better highway planning so as to save fertile farming areas.

Cite Road Needs

Citing interstate Route 84 now under construction across Orange County, the speaker suggested that a committee of engineers and agriculturalists in the areas affected be established before a project is implemented.

He also called for construction of highway underpasses to allow for continued production of food on separated lands.

Speaking on irrigation needs along the Wallkill River and tributaries, Stanley Gurda, a Pine Island muck farmer, said the law concerning water usage presently does not give any concrete protection to the agricultural industry.

"Riparian Law," he said, "says that anyone can use water from a river, even to a point or depleting the quantity as long as the water is not retained in any way."

"Therefore, we have no assurance of priority of the supply in the event that another industry requiring a water source should invade our area," he said. "We feel it is most important to have some guarantee of water rights since it is so vital to agricultural success."

AWARD WINNERS for best acting performances of 1966 belong to Liz Taylor (upper right), shown in her "Virginia Woolf" make-up, and Paul Schofield (lower right). Oscars for top supporting roles went to Sandy Dennis (upper left) and Walter Matthau. Of the four, only Matthau, hobbled by a bicycle accident injury, was present to receive the Oscar. Problem Returns To House After Powell's Victory

NEW YORK (AP) — For the second time in four months, the House of Representatives faces the sticky problem of what to do with Adam Clayton Powell, who won a lopsided election victory in absentia in his Harlem constituency Tuesday.

While the free-wheeling congressman fished in Gulf Stream waters off his Bimini island retreat, 32,000 Harlem voters gave him an 86 per cent margin over his closest opponent, Lucille Pickett Williams, a Republican.

"We've kept the faith, Adam," read pennants flying from the walls of Harlem's Democratic clubs, where votes were tallied.

Unofficial returns gave Powell 27,900 votes to 4,091 for Mrs. Williams and only 427 for the third candidate, the Rev. Ervin F. Yearling, a Conservative.

The 22-year House veteran, who may be forced to come back as a freshman, lost only 11 of 214 election districts, and those in a predominantly white corner of his 18th Congressional District.

Record for Adam
The 86 per cent vote was a record for Powell. Last fall he received 74 per cent of 61,287 votes cast. In the 1964 general election he took 82 per cent of 111,012 ballots cast.

There was little surprise at the long predicted outcome in Harlem, where community leaders have agreed that the House decision to exclude Powell from the 90th Congress on March 1 was a racially motivated slap which ignored Harlem's wishes.

"I consider this a mandate from the people to go out and elect him every time we need to," said Democratic campaign chairman L. Joseph Overton.

Asked what would happen if Congress again refuses to seat the 58-year-old Baptist minister, Overton said, "We have not planned what we're going to do. We're hopeful that the mandate of voters in the 18th Congressional District speaks for itself and that Congress will heed that mandate."

Leaders Undecided

With Powell rolling up his greatest margin in 13 elections, despite a lackadaisical turnout about half last fall's 60,000 voters, House leaders kept a close eye on the election, and appeared undecided on what to do.

Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., has repeatedly told newsmen no decision on procedure would be made until it is known what motions will be offered when Powell shows up.

When he might do this is anyone's guess. Sources close to him hinted Tuesday night that Powell would have no reaction to the election until he had conferred personally with Overton, possibly today in Bimini.

Completed before going into another block.

"Almost invariably this is not practical or feasible because under urban renewal plans existing streets are being abandoned and utilities removed and rebuilt. Streets and utilities must be provided for the new area being developed before work can be completed."

"Again, the agency does have developers, who have inquired about land, and, in due course, and at the appropriate time in the process, will actively seek developers and dispose of land in accordance with established federal regulations and applicable laws."

Large Undertaking
"It appears too at times as if some of the general public does not truly appreciate the amount of work involved in getting urban renewal land to the stage

Trucks Rolling With New Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) —

Trucks began hauling the nation's goods to market again today after a national contract agreement with the Teamsters Union ended a three-day industry lockout.

No Details Revealed

The three-year contract including an estimated 50-cent wage hike must still be ratified by 450,000 workers in some 12,000 trucking firms, but Teamsters General Vice President Frank Fitzsimmons urged the industry to immediately "get our people back to work."

Details of the pact were not announced.

Agreement by Trucking Employers Inc. got trucks rolling again within hours after the 1 a.m. settlement and was expected to end scattered panic buying, mass layoffs in some industries and a nationwide scare of growing shortages of many commodities.

Trucking Employers Inc. had called the lockout by some 1,500 of the nation's biggest firms in response to a rash of small Teamsters strikes that involved a few hundred men in a dozen or so cities.

"We are calling off our defensive shutdown," M. M. Gordon, president of TEI, said after the group's board of directors had met nearly three and a half days.

"We are notifying all our associations and carriers around the country, requesting that they go back to work," Gordon said.

An exception, he said, is the Chicago area, where Teamsters are on strike and the trucking firms are not represented by TEI.

In calling the lockout last Saturday at midnight, TEI had broadly hinted that President Johnson should invoke the Taft-Hartley Act with an 80-day cooling-off injunction.

But high government officials made it clear they wouldn't recommend an injunction unless the lockout effects became more severe. The contract announcement quickly followed.

Gordon said the industry policy committee will meet Thursday. The board of directors of TEI will recommend to its policy committee that it accept the contract agreement, he said.

"This has been a real case of collective bargaining. This has been no case of government pressure," said chief federal mediator William E. Simkin, who worked for weeks with federal mediators Walter Maggioni and Gilbert Seldin to win the settlement.

Windy City Panic Buying
In Chicago, one of the hardest hit cities during the lockout, a wave of panic buying striped some supermarket shelves of canned goods and produce.

More than 20,000 auto workers in numerous cities were laid off at least part of a day because of a shortage of parts. A Boston food chain switched to rail shipment for its perishables and the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce had predicted "a complete breakdown in our distribution system."

But New York and New Jersey weren't affected at all because trucking contracts don't expire there until August, and shortages were negligible in some other major cities, including Los Angeles and Miami.

Trucking Employers Inc. represents firms carrying some 65 per cent of the nation's truck freight, but it was not clear how much shipping was actually halted.

Could Strangle Economy

It appeared certain however in this first nationwide trucking stoppage that a long lockout or strike could eventually strangle much of the nation's economy.

The Teamsters throughout the dispute repeatedly said they would never stage a nationwide strike.

State May Rest Its Case Today Against Speck

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — The prosecution, after seven days of presenting testimony, plans to rest its case against Richard Speck, the tattooed wanderer charged with killing eight student nurses.

In the seven days, William Martin, assistant state's attorney of Cook County (Chicago), presented through witnesses chronological events of the July 14 slayings and the arrest of Speck three days later.

Martin's case is based primarily on the testimony of two witnesses, Corazon Amurao, who survived the slaughter, identified Speck as the intruder who herded the girls to one bedroom then led them out one by one.

Identify Prints

A fingerprint expert testified Tuesday that three prints lifted from the bedroom door were identical to Speck's.

Lt. Edward Giese, who heads the identification section of the Chicago Crime Laboratory, was shown two fingerprint cards with Speck's prints.

One set was taken by the U.S. Coast Guard. The second card was made after the defendant was treated at Cook County Hospital for self-inflicted arm slashes.

The state contends that the defendant acted like a fugitive before he knew police were seeking him for the murders. Several witnesses told of Speck's alleged flight to the North Side and the 90-cent-a-night beds of skid row.

Chest Expands Into 2 Areas

The Ulster County Community Chest completed the necessary arrangements to admit the Towns of Woodstock and West Hurley areas in the Community Chest starting in 1968.

Charles E. Raible, president, said in the numerous meetings with the citizens in this area it seemed a very logical step since during the recent campaign they felt as they were a part of the drive.

E. C. Varney, acting chairman for the citizens group, has called a meeting for Tuesday, April 18, at 8 p. m. at Rotron to meet with agency and Chest officials to discuss the leadership role necessary for the forthcoming campaign.

The Community Chest today supports 13 health, welfare, recreation and character building agencies in the City of Kingston and the Towns of Esopus, Hurley, Kingston, Marlborough, New Paltz, Rosendale, Saugerties and Ulster. At present it serves two thirds of the population of Ulster County and seeks additional areas dependent upon the interest of the citizens and the Chest's ability to find adequate leadership.

The Chest agencies have been conducting separate drives in Woodstock and West Hurley since they serve the people in those areas. However, by becoming a part of the Chest it will combine these efforts and enable the agencies to spend more time to provide their services.

The Ulster County Community Chest was organized in 1955 within the city of Kingston with 8 agencies and was extended outside the city into the county in 1962. The Community Chest represents a true example of citizens working together to meet human needs in a more effective manner without depending on government organizations.

All interested citizens are invited to attend the meeting Tuesday, April 18, 8 p. m., at Rotron.

Called Ideal Way
The committee reaffirms its original recommendation that the Board of Supervisors close the TB Hospital and convene an Advisory Council composed of County-wide representation of all governmental and voluntary agencies in the health and welfare fields. This Council should make recommendations to the Board of Supervisors as to the best use of the facilities. Such a procedure would be an ideal example of the community planning its own needs in the best American way.

The committee is also concerned that the resolution as submitted commits the county to a policy of public provision of nursing home facilities without sufficient investigation and deliberation of its implications.

In the resolution it is noted that the present infirmary facility

Will Bid For New Hall Term

Garraghan Cites Pressure to Stay

Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan today said he will bid to hold his job for another term because it appears that the city's citizens want him to stay.

"During the last year and three months I have endeavored to provide the citizens of Kingston the best government possible. Many new projects for the betterment of our city are still to be completed, and pressure from citizens in all 13 wards to remain as mayor for another two-year term has convinced me that I should make myself available."

Growth Only Pledge

"Any of the political parties or independent citizens who wish may endorse me. The only pledge that I will give to any political party or individuals is that every action that I take will be to see Kingston grow to its full potential."

"I have asked the Common Council to give the mayor's office an executive assistant, as no one man can handle the office with the federal and state projects involved."

The mayor has been endorsed by the Kingston Democratic committee and before this happened it was indicated that he could get the nod from the Republican Party.

This now, however, says John Ray Mayone, Republican city chairman, "is very much up in the air. We just don't know, but as of today Garraghan is not being offered anything."

Mayone noted that it was Garraghan who sought the nod from Republicans and not the party who had made any offer to him. His party, Mayone indicated, has eligible candidates.

Won by 374 Votes

Garraghan was elected in 1965 over Albert Kurtz, Republican candidate, by 374 votes. He had been given Conservative Party endorsement, and this upset some Democrats, including Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick, of Ellenville.

The mayor's running mate in 1965, Francis R. Koenig, with Liberal Party endorsement, was elected alderman-at-large over Republican Anthony J. Erena, by 1,108 votes. The year was one of Democratic trend and it gave the Common Council an 8-5 Democratic advantage. Garraghan succeeded Republican John J. Schwenk.

Even as he decided to seek the office in 1965 the mayor emphasized that the city needs a new city hall. It was then considered a drastic statement, but he has since proposed that one be built in Downtown's Broadway East urban renewal project area and a Common Council committee is considering the proposal.

It appears that when he first

UR Director Explains Questions on New Housing, Relocation

Kingston's Urban Renewal Agency "is proceeding with plans to make land available for private development," Eric Hemphill, explains in reply to questions put to him recently dealing with development and other phases of urban renewal.

Eight questions were asked recently by letter from Ronald F. Woods, of 15 Len Court.

Asks of Developers

Woods wanted to know if private housing developers had been found, and if so when will construction begin. He also asked how many families have been relocated and how many have been assisted with moving expenses.

Woods said he felt that the recent letter from the Department of Housing and Urban Renewal "cited unfair practices" used by the KURA. He asked for clarification of relocation of 32 families mentioned in the letter.

He wanted to know if urban renewal is still planned for the Seventh Ward, will the new city hall be built before adequate housing is finished, the present status of Uptown urban renewal and if it affected Downtown.

Also he asked if the model of Downtown UR is still the goal to go by, or was it just a selling point, and finally asked: "Do you believe that the safety hazards such as glass and nails on the sidewalks in Rondout should be removed in order to insure the safety of the children and residents of the area. Why do these conditions continue to exist?"

Hemphill in a general reply, answered several of the questions, and noted that "There are many other comments, which could be made to your questions you have raised. However, the scope of a letter does not allow for further elaboration."

Hemphill explained in part, that "The agency has received many inquiries from potential developers, but, as can readily be seen, cannot dispose of land for development until relocations have been accomplished and buildings demolished."

"You, of course are aware," he said, "that our Broadway East project is a sizable undertaking involving the acquisition, relocation and demolition of many buildings. We are proceeding as rapidly as we possibly can. However, the pace of redevelopment relate directly to the pace with which acquisitions, relocation and razing of buildings is accomplished."

"Some people have the idea that redevelopment can occur in a checkerboard fashion. That is, one block is bought up, the tenants relocated, the buildings removed and new development completed before going into another block.

"Almost invariably this is not practical or feasible because under urban renewal plans existing streets are being abandoned and utilities removed and rebuilt. Streets and utilities must be provided for the new area being developed before work can be completed."

"Again, the agency does have developers, who have inquired about land, and, in due course, and at the appropriate time in the process, will actively seek developers and dispose of land in accordance with established federal regulations and applicable laws."

Large Undertaking

"It appears too at times as if some of the general public does not truly appreciate the amount of work involved in getting urban renewal land to the stage that is ready for development. As stated previously, the pace of renewal activities are directly related to the pace with which relocations can be accomplished."

"The agency is responsible for relocating householders into housing that meets certain standards; that is large enough to accommodate the family and rents at a rent the family can afford. If a condition arises where a family cannot be relocated in accordance with these requirements, a delay results."

"Obviously the agency cannot evict such a family, and would only evict a family if they fail to accept a new apartment which would meet the relocation criteria, or if they fail to pay their rent, or maintain a nuisance in their apartment."

"As of the end of March there have been 231 families and 82 individuals relocated from the Broadway East urban renewal area. There are several families and individuals remaining in the project area who must be relocated before urban renewal plans can be completed."

"A study of the Rondout area was completed in May, 1961. The idea of this study was to determine the advisability and feasibility of plans for the redevelopment and rejuvenation of an area in Kingston, which, through the ravages of time, and shifts in economic and physical development, has become in varying degrees, obsolete and blighted."

Further renewal undertakings were recommended. Presently, the City of Kingston is considering the possibility of a code enforcement program whereby dwellings would be rehabilitated. This is not urban renewal as the term is commonly used and thought of.

"We are unable to answer your question about the timing for the construction of a new city hall. However, 136 units of low-income housing is already under construction. Other tracts of land will be made available for private residential development as rapidly as possible under our plans."

"The Uptown urban renewal project is approved, and funds have been allocated. The execution of the Uptown project is not expected to interfere with carrying out plans for the Broadway East program."

"Our plans for Broadway East, as indicated in the scale model of the project, are still in effect. The usage to be made of land, as indicated in the model, is still applicable and the level of development, as indicated by the model, still remains the goal we are trying to achieve."

"There are periodic inspections of the demolition activity in Broadway East, and where a hazardous situation is found to exist, effective steps are taken to correct the situation. It is an inherent part of the demolition process that there be rubble and debris. However, once a building is down and the rubble removed, the sites are left in a reasonably clean and safe condition. We shall continue our inspection to see that there are no truly hazardous conditions left extant."

"There are many other comments which could be made to questions you have raised. However, the scope of a letter does not allow for further elaborations."

Tax Questions, Answers

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—I filed my return last week and am expecting a refund. However, I just got a W-2 statement from a former employer I thought had gone out of business. What should I do?

A—If you included the income and withholding information from this W-2 on your return without attaching an explanation wait until you are contacted by IRS. When your return is processed, the missing W-2 will be noted and you will be requested to supply it.

However, if you neglected to include this information and you discover this before the due date for filing, file a corrected return. To do this, fill out another return including all information previously reported plus the information that was missing. Type or print "corrected return" in the top margin of the form.

About Errors

If this error is discovered after the due date for filing, follow the same procedure except that the return should be clearly marked "amended return" rather than "corrected return."

Q—We hired a housekeeper to take care of the kids several weeks last year while my wife was in the hospital for an operation. Can we claim the child care deduction?

See your dentist regularly. Get FASTEETH at all drug counters.

A—To be eligible for the child care deduction, your wife's illness would have had to last at least 90 days. Check Page 9 of the 1040 instructions for further details.

Q—Our interest income was over $10 last year but it was split up among several different banks. Do we have to report all of this or just the amount over $10 received from any one bank?

A—All interest from savings accounts must be reported as taxable income, whether or not it was reported to you on a Form 1099.

Q—I understand IRS had prepared a questionnaire-type tax form. Where can I get a copy?

A—This is an experimental form being used by only a small sample of taxpayers in the Southwest this year. If the form proves satisfactory, it may be adopted for wider use next year.

Only taxpayers who received the questionnaire form in the mail should use it this year.

Q—Is state inheritance tax deductible?

A—No, it is not.

Both Must Sign

Q—My wife had no income so why does she have to sign our joint return?

A—The law requires both husband and wife to sign joint returns. Even though she had no income, she is legally responsible for any tax due under a joint return. If she does not sign, processing the return and any refund that may be due will be delayed.

Q—Can I deduct a personal loan I can't collect?

A—If you have taken reasonable steps to collect the loan and if there is no likelihood that the debt may be recovered even by going to court then you may deduct the amount of the loan as a short term capital loss. This should be reported on Schedule D of Form 1040.

Should you recover any part of the debt at any time in the future it must be included in your income, subject to special rules. Note that loans to children and other relatives may be considered gifts and not legal debts.

Q—I had to pay about $100 when I filed my 1966 tax return.

Does that mean I should probably file an estimated return?

A—Declarations of estimated tax should be filed if your expected tax liability exceeds withholding by $40 or more and either (1) your 1967 estimated income exceeds $5,000 for a single individual or a married individual not entitled to file a joint declaration; and heads of households, certain widows and widowers and married couples entitled to file a joint declaration whose income exceeds $10,000; a (2) more than $200 of income is from sources not subject to withholding (dividends, interest, business profits, etc.).

If you meet these requirements for 1967 you should file a declaration of estimated tax Form 1040ES.

Q—My husband died in 1965 and I filed a joint return for that year. Can I file a joint return again for 1966 since I haven't remarried?

A—You may file using joint return rates for the two years succeeding the year of your husband's death if you maintain your home as the principal residence for a dependent child. Check page 3 of the 1040 instructions for details.

On Home Sale

Q—Is it true that you don't have to pay tax on any profit from the sale of your home if you're in the Armed Forces?

A—No, members of the Armed Forces may still be liable for tax on profits from the sale of a home. The law, however, does have several special provisions on these sales which benefit members of the Armed Forces on active duty.

Tax is postponed on profits from the sale of a home if another costing the same or more than the adjusted sales price of the one sold is purchased within one year before or after the sale. This also applies if another house is constructed and occupied not later than 18 months after the sale of the old one.

For Armed Services members, on active duty, this period is suspended for a period up to four years from the date of the sale.

Q—Can I use a statement from my doctor as substantiation for a medical expense?

A—The statement will be helpful but you will also need records to show that the expense was paid during the tax year. If the doctor's statement included that information it would usually be acceptable as substantiation.

Q—Are dividends from a credit union savings account really dividends or are they considered interest?

A—They are considered interest and fully taxable.

Red Cross Seeks College Men for Field Assistants

An urgent call went out recently for men with college backgrounds to help fill staff vacancies on military bases for the American Red Cross. Mrs. Donald Snell, volunteer chairman of Service to Military Families in the Ulster County Chapter, revealed that the organization's Service at Military Installations program is feeling the pinch created by the sharp increase of troop strength both in Vietnam and the United States.

Qualified young men are needed to come into the Red Cross as assistant field directors — men, who, after a month of formal Red Cross training, can provide our traditional services to American servicemen," said Mrs. Snell.

Viet Service Up

During the past fiscal year Red Cross staff in Vietnam performed 101,670 case services for military personnel, she said. After only six months of the current fiscal year, the services have already reached 95,410 or approximately 16,000 cases per month; this is more than double the number served a year ago. In this same six month period, Mrs. Snell added, $140,600 was provided servicemen in no-interest loans and grants to meet unexpected emergencies — a huge amount compared with the total figure of $19,295 for the previous year.

A Red Cross assistant field director counsels servicemen and women who have personal or family problems. Mrs. Snell explained. Other duties include assistance with transportation arrangements in emergencies, aiding communications between servicemen and their families, and working with local chapters of the Red Cross in providing similar services as needed for dependents at home. On installations they may arrange for health and recreation programs, such as swimming and first aid, and coordinate volunteer activities.

Aid Is Doubled

"In January 1966 Red Cross field directors and assistant field directors handled 6,173 emergency messages that passed to and from Vietnam," Mrs. Snell said. "They are now averaging 13,000 a month."

Applicants, Mrs. Snell advised, should be in good health and free to travel anywhere. College level study in social sciences is an asset, as is actual experience in group leadership and social work.

After successful domestic experience, assistant field directors are eligible for assignment to overseas installations.

Unlimited Opportunities

"The Red Cross is interested in finding men who enjoy working with people and who are resourceful in finding ways to help them," Mrs. Snell said. "These jobs," she continued, "are not only good jobs in themselves, with many benefits, but they are also relatively unlimited in the career opportunity they offer in all phases of Red Cross work."

Referring to some of the benefits, Mrs. Snell mentioned that those selected will participate in a retirement system, Social Security Group Insurance, and indicating that members of the Ulster County Red Cross chapter staff would like to talk with qualified candidates at any early date, Mrs. Snell said that interested young men need only call Mrs. Walter K. Hubbard, executive director, Ulster County Chapter, for an appointment.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, APRIL 12, 1967

REGISTER FRIDAY

Two vacancies on the Kingston Consolidated Board of Education will be filled at the May 2 election. Registration of voters will take place Friday, April 14 at the Municipal Auditorium from 10 a. m. to 7 p. m.

Residents of the school district who must register to qualify are those who did not register for the preceding general election and those who did register for the preceding general election but at the time resided in a school election district other than the one in which they now reside. Also those who recently turned 21 and those who moved into the school district since the preceding general election.

Eligibility to vote includes people who are citizens of the United States, 21 years of age and who meet the residency requirements of one year in the state, four months in the county and 30 days in the school election district.

In past school elections in the district, there has been a shameful display of apathy by citizens. We don't believe this disgraceful performance of citizenship—a little over 10 per cent of the eligible voters performed their civic duty—gives evidence of an enlightened electorate.

Members of the board are the representatives of all the people in the district and they are entrusted with the responsibility of coping with all the problems affecting education. They serve without salary.

Qualified voters should at least display enough interest in our schools to be prepared to cast their ballots May 2.

HUMPHREY'S MISSION

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey on his journey to Europe has given a clear and effective explanation of American policy which should help us to better communicate with the Western Allies.

The Vice President's trip will be invaluable to us if we can re-establish confidence in our motives and dispel suspicion in our people.

We should have better communication with the European continent where we have poured billions of dollars and where our American boys have given their lives. And today we still are carrying on in Southeast Asia for the ultimate safety of those nations.

KIDNAPPERS' SHORT ODDS

Let the criminal-minded believe that kidnapping is an easy way to fortune because Herbert J. Young paid a $250,000 ransom to get his 11-year-old son Kenneth back alive, the Federal Bureau of Investigation released the statistics on kidnapping since 1932, when it was made a Federal Crime under the Lindbergh Act.

Of more than 700 kidnappings in these 35 years, only four cases remain unsolved. That makes the odds on the solution of the Young or any new case 1 to 175. No criminal with a speck of intelligence would take that kind of chance, even though an average of 20 a year have, and all but four lost.

Nor was it unusual for the father to pay the ransom. The bureau lets the victim's parents make that decision, and if they are able to meet it, they usually do, in their anxiety to recover their child. But the bureau's work is enlarged then.

Under the Lindbergh law, kidnapping is a Federal crime when it is believed that the victim has been taken across state lines. When he has no been heard from in 24 hours, the F.B.I. is authorized to presume the law's condition has been fulfilled and enters the case.

The safe return of the victim is the primary concern of the F.B.I. Then it goes all out to find and arrest the captors and restore the ransom. It's a losing game for kidnappers, and they should know it, before they are tempted by the apparent ease of this most recent snatch.

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN
COMBATING THE SNOOPER STATE

One recent event would seem to indicate that 1964, the year in which George Orwell's Big Brother is supposed to become the all-seeing, all-knowing and all-disposing keeper of us peasants, is approaching at more than a jog trot. And another event shows that some Americans are girding to fight the trend without reference to their own individual places in the liberal-conservative spectrum.

The move toward Big Brotherdom got its big boost from Sargent Shriver, head of the anti-poverty program, when he suggested to a Senate Labor subcommittee that every 16-year-old in the nation, whether boy or girl, should be registered and tested for national service of one sort or another. True enough, Shriver did not say the 16-year-olds should be compelled to do non-military selective service. But he wants Big Brother's eye on all the kids.

Combating the Shriver idea, at least indirectly, is the newly formed National Right to Privacy Committee, co-chaired by the improbable team of Vance Packard, a Leftist author, and William F. Rickenbacker, an editor of what columnists Novak and Evans call the "Goldwaterish" magazine, National Review. Mr. Packard and Mr. Rickenbacker agree on almost nothing under the sun except that they don't like snooping. In a book called The Naked Society, Vance Packard recently attacked the invasion of privacy by government and business. Mr. Rickenbacker, a direct actionist in the mold of his father, Captain Eddie Rickenbacker of World War I aviation fame, refused to answer the household questionnaire directed to every fourth household in the 1960 Census, and was convicted and fined $100 for it. He was also sentenced to jail for thirty days, but the sentence was suspended by a judge who must have had a lurking sense of humor, or at least a sense of proportion.

The National Right to Privacy Committee views with special alarm the idea of creating a National Data Bank, in which there would be computerized dossiers on every citizen. It also wants the Bureau of the Census to stop prying into what householders may consider their own business. Compulsory questioning about household affairs, says Mr. Rickenbacker, constitutes an unreasonable search and is unconstitutional. Mr. Rickenbacker wonders why the Supreme Court, which, as he puts it, "has shown great interest in the privacy of criminals," has refused to review his contention that purely sociological surveys should be conducted on a voluntary basis.

The National Right to Privacy Committee hasn't yet singled out Sargent Shriver for an attack. But it stands to reason that any detailed census of 16-year-olds that is unrelated to purely military service would be a thunderous invasion of privacy. Mr. Shriver no doubt means well; he is trying to find a way of uncovering those 16-year-olds who are in definite need of anti-poverty help. But with a compulsory investigation of the kids' circumstances would necessarily entail snooping into the family affairs of practically everybody in the country. The resulting punch cards would have to go into a National Data Bank for quick availability—and Big Brother would have his finger on every family with children.

Mr. Shriver speaks of a "national assessment." He has "national service" in mind. But "national service" means that Congress, or some deputized body, would have to draw up some national goals, under a theory of national purpose. This isn't work in America, which was founded on the idea that it was up to individual people and groups to have purposes, and that government was instituted among men to protect people in their legitimate pursuit of their purposes. The whole idea of a national assessment, as expressed by Shriver and by Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara before him, sounds vaguely Prussian. Curiously, it comes just as more and more Americans (witness Senator Brooke) are questioning the necessity and desirability of drafting people for a peacetime army, let alone a widespread "national service."

I can't believe that Sargent Shriver has thought the problem through of how to help indigent or deprived sixteen-year-olds. Surely the government can find out who and where the needy ones are without turning Big Brother loose on forty-odd million families, most of whom are quite capable of raising their own children. WASHINGTON (NEA)—If you live in Cuba, you never know from day to day what will happen to you. You may be jailed with no trial or explanation. Your arrest will come suddenly and without warning. You won't know where you're going. You won't know how long you're to serve. Your release may come just as suddenly—without explanation. You may never know why you served the sentence.

This correspondent met the other day a man we will call Jose Ortega. He had just arrived in the United States. We met at the home of his brother-in-law.

Ortega lived in Cuba near Santiago, in a house he had built himself near the beach. He was an engineer and had just completed his final examination in night school for a degree. He was 41 years old, married and with a family.

Then Ortega applied for permission to come to the United States. The night school thereupon tore up his final examination without grading it and refused to give him his engineering degree.

A short time later, on July 7, 1966, a military man arrived at Ortega's house on a motorcycle. The man brought Ortega a telegram saying he must go in the army for five years. He was supposed to report at military headquarters the next day with his clothing and a toothbrush.

Ortega was surprised. Military service was required for men aged 15 to 27. So he went to the military office the next day and said "I am 41." The man he talked to said "Go back home; this must be a mistake."

But that night a man in shabby olive-colored uniform came to his door. It was difficult to say what he was. He said to Ortega "You have to come with me right now to the Military Committee." This man wanted Ortega to get on the back of his motorcycle and come.

Ortega asked the driver where they were going. The driver said: "None of your business." They drove all night. The next morning they picked up 12 more men, ranging from about 20 to 45.

Two miles later, they came to a barbed wire enclosure, 12 feet high and about 200 to 250 yards long. Overhead the barbed wire extended inward three feet. It looked like the Nazi concentration camps Ortega had seen in moving pictures. There were two military-type barracks.

The 16 prisoners were ordered through the gate and into the barracks where they turned in their civilian clothes. Inside the barracks were long rows of two-decker bunks, stacked close together so you couldn't move between them. About 300 men slept in the 75-yard long room.

The prisoners were told that any of them who came within six feet of the barbed wire fence would be shot.

Each day the prisoners were ordered up at 4 a. m., given 10 minutes to get into formation. (They had no dressing problem. They lived, worked and slept in the same clothes all the time. They were there without a change and without washing them.)

They ate, then marched off under guard two miles for seven hours work in a cane field. The farmers living around the plantation camp area had been weeded of uncertain elements given arms and instructed to shoot any prisoner attempting to escape. After the 7-hour cane cutting, the prisoners marched back to the barracks for a lunch of black beans and rice.

After lunch each day the inmates marched in a column of fours for four hours under the command of a noncommissioned officer. Dinner of black beans and rice was followed by two hours of indoctrination in communism.

Sunday was slightly different. An NCO would

William S. White Says

GOP Sees Gains in '68 Congress

WASHINGTON—Though the central salient in next year's political warfare will inevitably be the struggle for the Presidency itself, the Republicans are preparing an unusually strong, well-financed and close-knit attack upon the Congressional flank of the Democrats.

GOP gains in the House of Representatives to equal if not to exceed those of last November are realistically counted upon in the private and purely objective estimates of the Republican professionals. Still, an even greater field of opportunity for the "out" party lies in the Senate, where a complex set of circumstances is bringing a smile of genuine hope to the hands of the old elephant.

First of all, there is the fact that 23 Democratic Senate seats, as against only 11 Republican seats, will be up in 1968. Even more significant from the Republican point of view, however, is the fact that never in many years has the eve of a senatorial campaign year seen so many sitting Democrats so unarguably vulnerable in advance. For it happens that no less than half a dozen of the 23 Democrats who must meet the test of the ballot box are in, or very close to, the peacetime wing of the Democratic party, which demands a soft line in Vietnam.

Indeed, 1968 could provide an extraordinarily clear-cut referendum between doves and hawks on the war issue so far as the Senate is concerned, whereas the Presidential campaign is far more likely to be strictly a matter of which party's candidate is more hawkish than the other.

The six Senate Democrats whose seats are undeniably shaky are Wayne Morse of Oregon, Frank Church of Idaho, Joseph Clark of Pennsylvania, Ernest Gruening of Alaska, George McGovern of South Dakota and Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin.

Not only do all six stand well outside the bipartisan national consensus on foreign policy, but four at least—Church, Clark, McGovern and Nelson—carry the additional handicap of being from states which are basically Republican in makeup and, having once elected a Democrat to the Senate, are historically unlikely to send him back.

And Morse, for one, is in trouble otherwise. Word to Republican headquarters here from Oregon suggests that former Rep. Robert Duncan, who barely lost a senatorial race last year to Mark Hatfield and is an unapologetic hawk, might well give Morse the race of his life even to retain the Democratic nomination next year.

The long and short of it is that next year's elections could all but destroy the hard core of Senate doves, even though their leader, Sen. J. William Fulbright of Arkansas, is generally favored here to win reelection.

In fact, the circumstance which brings up six Democratic doves at one time is a favorable one for the Republicans in more ways than one. As a party, they are more generally in support of military resistance in Vietnam than are the Democrats, and they therefore will be able to mount their assaults on these six with a degree of unity and logic rarely attained by either party in senatorial contests.

That is, they will be able to do all this on the forthright assumption that the Republican National Convention chooses a Presidential nominee who stands with the generality of the party for a hard line in Vietnam. The qualification explains why it is that in tactical necessity as well as in conviction and principle, the great majority of Congressional Republicans profoundly hopes for a convention decision giving not an inch to the viewpoint of the half-handful of Republican doves now in public office.

Henry J. Taylor Says

Andrews' Indictment Is Real Eye-Opener

By HENRY TAYLOR

DALLAS—This city, not New Orleans, is the place to factually evaluate the developments in Attorney General Jim Garrison's probe into President Kennedy's assassination.

You need knowing judgments and the men who have them are the chief Federal and local officials personally in command of the investigating teams that supplanted the material here for the Warren Commission Report.

They're strictly "hands off" Mr. Garrison's case but the real eye-opener, they say, is the indictment for perjury of New Orleans lawyer Dean Adams Andrews Jr.

Seeking the truth about Lee Harvey Oswald you find that the FBI first began a file on him in October, 1959, when Moscow news dispatches mentioned his defection to the Soviet Union. Calculating he would one day want to come back, or would be somehow reintroduced into the United States, the FBI arranged with our immigration officials to be notified in that event.

This worked. Regional FBI chief J. Gordon Shanklin, famous in the bureau, ordered Special Agents John W. Fain and B. Tom Carter to interview Oswald as a suspected subversive on June 22, 1962, in Fort Worth.

Fain, always leery of Oswald, retired that October. Agent James P. Hosty Jr., took over. Shanklin fanned the reports to the FBI in New Orleans, New York, etc.

After the assassination, Shanklin conducted the investigation against the background, and on November 10 New Orleans agents Regis L. Kennedy and Carl L. Schaefer were instructed to talk with lawyer Dean Andrews at 627 Maison Blanche Building, New Orleans.

This resulted in the first mention of a Clay Bertrand, whom Attorney General Garrison insists is prominent New Orleansian Clay L. Shaw. Andrews 1964, with assistant counsel Wesley J. Liebler of the President's Commission when the Secret Service subpoenaed him.

Andrews declared that after only once meeting Bertrand several years earlier this man had become a "telephone voice" to him by having him bail out and get paroled certain of the arrested homosexuals "scooped up by the police, especially on Friday nights."

Andrews told the FBI he assumed Bertrand sent him Oswald. This was about July 10 of the assassination year, the first of four visits, and Oswald came regarding immigration matters. But he was accompanied by the same "apparent homosexuals" Bertrand had Andrews get out of the 1st District Precinct holding navilion 10 days later. These included "a Mexicano with a ponree, silk shirt" who came back alone with Oswald on the subsequent visits. The FBI suspects this man of being one Frank Pizzu. Andrews emphasized that he did not think that Oswald himself was a homosexual, nor is there any known evidence that he was beyond the implied indication of association.

Andrews Kennedy and Schaefer reported to Shanklin here that Andrews said that the day after the assassination (a Saturday) he was in the Hotel Dieu hospital with pneumonia when "the phone rang and a voice I recognized as Clay Bertrand asked me to go to Dallas to help defend Oswald. Sick, I said I would get somebody else."

Andrews telephoned attorney Monk Zelden at the New Orleans Athletic Club but didn't reach him until Sunday noon. Zelden replied: "Don't worry about it. Your client just got shot."

Then after the assassination when several of the scooped-up people who—among 50 arrested—were released through Andrews did not pay him, Andrews started looking for Bertrand. He told the FBI he located Bertrand in the Cosmos Bar. They recognized each other immediately and Bertrand avoided him by "running into the street." "I never could find Bertrand again," he stated. And the FBI has never located a Clay Bertrand any place.

But when Garrison summoned Andrews to physically identify Clay Bertrand as being Clay Shaw, Andrews swore he could not make this identification. And Shaw has sworn repeatedly that it's ridiculous even to suggest he ever knew Oswald.

If Garrison can convict Andrews on the indictment for perjury on this point, no top investigator here would underestimate what this could open up. They know intimately, and right off, many sleazy names our public is reading about (dead and alive) in the news from New Orleans. But, they say, watch carefully—very carefully—what happens to Dean Adams Andrews. It's a word from the wise.

Fuss Over Hubert Earmark Of Shrewd Political Move

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—The true significance of the spectacular reception given at the White House by President Johnson for Vice President Humphrey on the latter's return from Europe may not be apparent on the surface. But it has the earmarks of a very shrewd political maneuver.

For whatever question may have been raised in recent months as to whether the President would abandon Mr. Humphrey as his running mate in 1968 seems to have been effectively answered.

The rumors developed when Mr. Johnson's popularity curve had turned downward, while Senator Robert F. Kennedy of New York was going around the country making political hay. This led some over-enthusiastic supporters of Bobby Kennedy to suggest that the only way Mr. Johnson could recover the lost strength among "liberals" would be to put the New York Senator on the ticket.

No such theory, however, has ever been taken seriously at the White House. For it is obvious to any experienced politician that if a president running for re-election isn't strong enough to win on his own record, the vice-presidential candidate is hardly able to make up for that deficiency.

Mr. Johnson had a wide field in 1964 from which to choose a running mate, and selected Hubert H. Humphrey because he seemed to be able to win the "liberals," or at least not as a conspicuous member of the "liberal" school of thought.

Mr. Humphrey's demeanor as Vice President has been politically efficient. He has praised the President on every occasion, and there probably has not been a single public speech in which he has not lauded the President's acts and declarations of policy. This, of course, is one of the inherent obligations of a Vice President, but few Vice Presidents have been as vocal on behalf of the chief executive whom they served.

Mr. Johnson as Vice President made trips abroad, but was not given as much opportunity to expose himself throughout the country and in foreign lands as Mr. Humphrey has enjoyed.

The particular reason, however, for making a fuss about the Vice President on his return from Europe this week is related to many other things besides domestic policies. Mr. Johnson is not too eager to spend a lot of time abroad himself and would like very much to build up Mr. Humphrey as his political envoy for the many difficult situations that are arising on almost every continent. Hubert Humphrey thus far has handled the overseas job skillfully. The anti-Vietnam war demonstrations and other dramatic exhibitions designed to downgrade the United States and its representative did not in the slightest degree affect his poise.

The unusual emphasis placed upon Mr. Humphrey's trip by President Johnson will not be overlooked in political circles. Senator Kennedy now says he is going to support the Johnson-Humphrey ticket in 1968, but some of his ardent supporters think this is merely a tactful comment at this time. They are still talking about pressing a future campaign for Kennedy for either first or second place. But such ideas seem to have been discounted this week by President Johnson as he, in effect, makes clear that he has already chosen his running mate for 1968.

Only a little while ago there was talk that Mr. Johnson himself would not be a candidate for re-election, but there is every evidence that he hasn't the slightest intention of giving up the race in 1968 and is devoting a good deal of attention to a build-up of his political strength in anticipation of the next campaign.

The more public notice taken of Vice President Humphrey, the more effective he can become as a campaign speaker in behalf of Mr. Johnson. Certainly the Vice President can expect to attract larger audiences than would have been the case if he hadn't been the beneficiary of so much publicity bestowed upon him by the President himself.

President Takes Hope, Not Money to Uruguay

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Shortly after he became President Theodore Roosevelt expressed his contempt for Latin Americans, saying he would "show those dazos that they will have to behave decently."

That wasn't unusual. For most of its history this country's relations with Latin America were at loose ends, some of them very unpleasant. They are dangling a bit now, but not unpleasantly.

President Johnson's presence at the meeting of Latin-American presidents in Punta del Este, Uruguay, is a mission of hope; that they will agree to set up a common market, knocking down such barriers to easy trade as tariffs.

It's a long-range goal. The market probably couldn't start working until 1980. But Latin America's problems are long-range as it grooves through poverty, trying to come abreast of the 20th century. Its population will be 625 million in the year 2000.

Meanwhile other barriers will have to be smashed, like the huge land-holdings of feudal families who look on progress as a threat. Latin America is saturated with slums. It is way behind industrially and economically.

Six years ago President John F. Kennedy stirred up the Latin Americans when he called for an Alliance for Progress with them. The purpose was to stimulate this country's southern neighbors to press hard for self-development with U.S. help.

No Howling Success
It has been operating six years and it is no howling success. Secretary of State Dean Rusk says the progress has been slow. The common market idea is an added incentive to get the Latin Americans to work together for their common good.

Recently Rusk said from 1961 through 1966 the Latin-American nations have invested about $91 billion in their own development, with the United States contributing about $6.5 billion, something like $1 billion a year. Johnson had hoped to carry with him to Punta del Este a promise, backed by Congress, that if the machinery for a common market were created, this country would contribute another $1.5 billion over the next five years.

But while the House went along with him, the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee would not. It wouldn't give any flat assurance of money. All Johnson can do now is assure the Latin Americans he hopes Congress will vote the money for the market, if there is a market.

Idealism Began Late
U.S. idealism where Latin America is concerned began late. There have been five periods in this country's relations with its southern neighbors.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By Sophie Miller

The year 1967 will see many changes in our old colonial city of Kingston. The new Post Office building, in the old Athletic Field, being built by private contractors and they are certainly working at it regardless of snow, rain or mud. Cy's Diner was removed from Broadway and E. Chester street and the land is being cleared of several houses for a new hamburger drive-in. Again on the next block at Delaware Avenue and Broadway, several houses are coming down early this month as land is cleared for the new Rondout Savings Bank, which is being built because of Urban Renewal. And of course here is work going on near Hasbrouck Avenue for the 135 units of Rondout Gardens.

I wonder which building will go up first—no doubt the Post Office—and which will be finished last. One of the local construction men told me that they could build a modern ranch style house for the amount to be spent on each of the 135 units, which will have common walls and other money saving devices. In other words, they could build 135 separate ranch style homes for individual living with ground around it, for the price the taxpayers will pay for the entire building structures. Friday, March 31, 1967 was a sunny afternoon, and I was surprised how empty the two North Front Street parking lots were, and so few people on Wall Street. Broadway east land will certainly have plenty of parking space for a new City Hall, and any other offices like the Post Office remaining in Rondout. There are a number of government offices in the upper congested part of Kingston which perhaps will find their way in the new Rondout section.

Years ago, when I went to the beach on the trolley-car I often wondered about that swampy ground on the road and track. Mayor Raymond W. Garrahan has covered the swamp on the Hudson River side with fresh brick bats, and I see a new road in progress. He says it will be covered with sand and dirt and seeded for use by the taxpayers of Kingston. The beach and Kingston Point section are so built by nature that they could be no end of summer pleasure, and I do hope that Mayor Garrahan will have a chance to work out his ideas there unhampered—and someone will be in charge day and night—so vandals will no longer be kings, to destroy as they have been allowed to do through the years without being stopped in most of the parks.

It seems this year that somehow, the people of Kingston are becoming angry and are beginning to ask questions, and are getting together to do something about many things. Urban Renewal has changed the atmosphere of Rondout no end. I thought it was going to be done in small phases, take down a few buildings, and build some apartments. In fact it is a sure thing, exactly the location where the new bridge and arterial highway will go. I know it must go on the Broadway side of the railroad tracks. I did not see any borings or digging done by the state engineers as yet.

I remember when the Rondout Creek Bridge was built, it took perhaps two years or more for that preliminary work. I understand that the model of Rondout, which was done on a flat surface and if anything, Rondout is certainly not flat ground. Then the model will not be followed. I heard that some $5,000 was spent on that model of little houses. I feel that whoever made that model either never set foot in Rondout or spent very little time in our hilly Broadway east.

Boy Scouts Hear Speaker; Camp in Woodland Valley

Recently Troop 12 BSA was honored by a visit and lecture on Juvenile Behavior by the newly appointed juvenile aid officer, William Whelan. He stressed the important part that Scouting plays in combating crime.

The troop recently enjoyed a three-day camping trip to Woodland Valley. Among the highlights of the camp-out was the appearance of three deer at the camp site. The Scouts enjoyed coaxing the deer close to the fire with bits of bread and did manage to get them about five feet from the nearest boy.

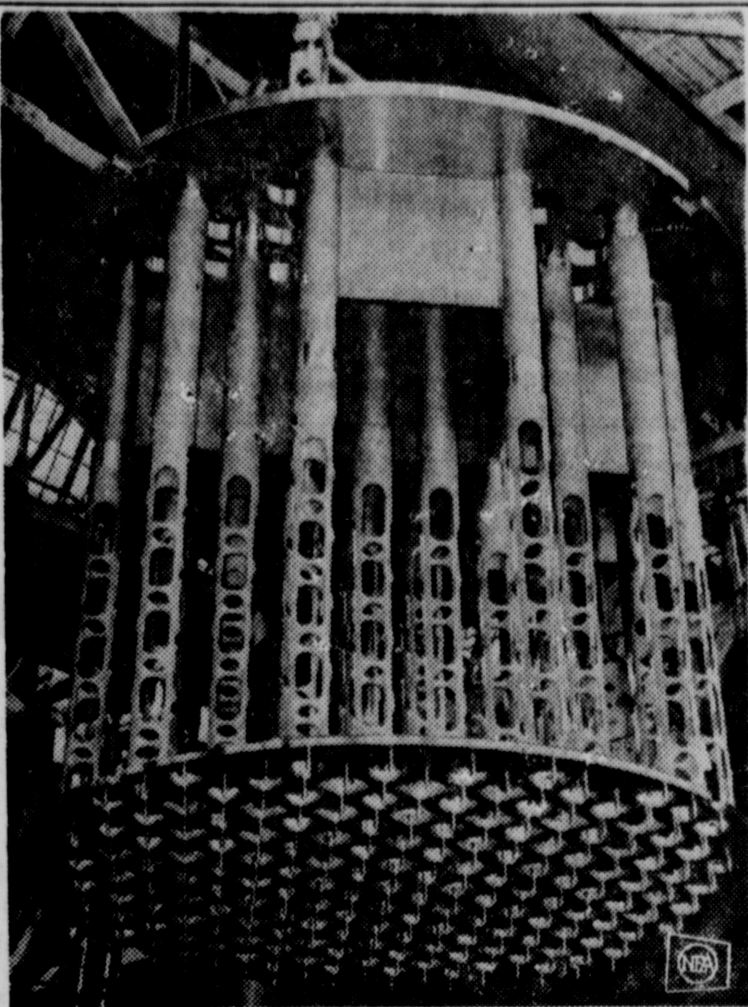

Those Scouts attending were: William Gemmell, Theodore Spader, Gregory Welch, Richard White, Benjamin Hamilton, Sol Edwards and Assistant Scoutmaster James Gemmell.

Transportation was provided by John Alecca, Richard White and Mrs. John Spader.

THOREAU

HENRY DAVID Thoreau, 19th-century essayist whose works are read today by millions the world over, is the subject of a new five-cent commemorative to be issued July 12, 150th anniversary of the writer's birth. First-day ceremonies will be at Concord, Mass., where he was born and buried and not far from Walden Pond where Thoreau secluded himself for two years to contemplate nature and write.

INDUSTRIAL PIPE ORGAN can't play a note, but it can help whistle up 490,000 kilowatts of electricity when included in the Connecticut Yankee Atomic Power Company's power plant now under construction. In this upper internals package of a pressurized water reactor on the plant, water will flow upwards past fuel assemblies below and continue through these pipes on its way to the heat exchanger.

College Lists Third Biology Lecturer on 28th

A nationally known conservationist, Albert M. Day, will speak Friday, April 28, at Ulster County Community College.

Day, former director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, will give a science in perspective lecture. Arrangements for the talk are in charge of Associate Professor Richard B. Glazer, coordinator of Biology and Medical Laboratory Technology at the college.

The topic of Day's talk will be Conservation in Our Modern World.

To Comment on Laws

Prof. Glazer said Congress recently has enacted several laws which will have far reaching benefits in the field of natural resource management, and reported Day will comment on them in his talk. In addition the speaker will talk about moves in the making to strengthen pollution abatement, control strip mining abuses, review antiquated land laws and other measures which conservationists have requested for years.

Day has spent his entire adult life in the field of fish and wildlife conservation, having served with the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service and the Arctic Institute of North America before going to Oregon.

A native of Wyoming, he graduated with a Bachelor of Science Degree from the University of Wyoming in 1922. After more than 10 years of field work with the former Biological Survey in the States of Wyoming and Nebraska, Day was transferred to Washington, D. C. where he became the first chief of the Pittman-Robertson Federal Aid to Wildlife program. This act distributes the taxes from the sale of sporting arms and ammunition to all of the States and Territories in the Union for wildlife conservation purposes. Later he became assistant director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, a combination of the former Biological Survey and the Bureau of Fisheries. He served as assistant director from 1943 to 1956. During World War II, he served as Liaison Officer with the Military Services.

Named Director in '46

He was appointed director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in 1946 and in this capacity held numerous important positions at the national and international level on conservation matters.

Included in this list were administrator, Defense Fisheries Administration during the war; advisor to the U.S. Section of the United Nations Conference on the Law of the Sea; panel member of the International Union for the Protection of Nature at Caracas, Venezuela; organizing committee member to form Alaska Science Conference; member of the special group to study conditions on the Pribilof Islands in Alaska and a panel member of the UN Scientific Conference on Conservation.

In international fisheries matters, Day served for several years as a member of the Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission and advisor on the International North Pacific Fisheries Commission which included representation at the Tri-Nation Conference on Fisheries at Tokyo, Japan. Also as a member of the Pacific Marine Fisheries Commission.

Day served for several years as a national director of the Izaak Walton League and is presently national chairman of the league's Fisheries Committee.

This will be the third biology lecture in the Science and Perspective Series which has been under way for three years. Last year, the speaker was Dr. John Olive, executive director of the American Institute of Biological Sciences.

Peculiar Twist

Problems Posed
For Rail Lines
At Harvest Time

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The perennial problem of the freight car shortage is still with us, a bit empty and idle right now but loaded with repercussions for fall, when the big grain harvests come in.

Problems Still There
"If we have good weather we will have a severe problem," a federal official says.

Some of the grain growing areas have been having poor weather, however, and just this week the Department of Agriculture reported a 10 per cent cut in winter wheat estimates for parts of the Great Plains.

But the problem remains. Because of the depletion of reserves there's been a bit in-croase more than 30 per cent in grain plantings. This leaves the Great Plains crop still at a potential 10 per cent more than last year.

If a return to good weather brings this crop to harvest in full it could swamp the railroads. And if good economic weather brings a surge of industrial production at the same time the problems would be multiplied.

It is a myriad of problems such as these that makes the nation vulnerable to this annual shortage. Not even a computer can mix all the business, weather, economic and financial problems so as to have enough cars in the right spot at precisely the right time. It is a box score that never adds up.

The peculiar nature of the problem is emphasized by the fact that it worsens on good news and shrinks on bad: poor weather, economic downturns, poor crops, declines in auto production. But it's always there. Why?

The simplest answer is that it is uneconomical for the nation's railroads to keep in reserve a large supply of cars merely on the chance there will be a peak demand for them for a few days.

Next Week Something Else
Already the nation has 1,821-423 cars, "fairly comfortable for today's needs," says a railroad official, "but maybe not for next week."

As it is, the Interstate Commerce Commission estimates that in one year the average boxcar moves loaded a total of only 23 days and moves empty another 14 days. For the rest of the time it is idle in yards or on sidings.

To add more cars — and some of them cost $35,000 — would be to invest in a certain amount of idleness.

Obviously, though, there is room for improvement in utilization, and this part of the problem is being tackled by both the ICC and the railroads. Simply to increase the number of days a car is used has the same effect as building new ones.

Utilization, however, is bogged down in a morass of old practices. Both shipper and receiver of a freight car receive 48 hours of "free" time. "If we cut that time," said a railroad official, "you would hear immediate howls from customers." The railroads, therefore, aren't likely to act. But, an observer notes, "if the ICC orders them they can't do much about it."

Other idleness results from overbordering by shippers, holding of cars by carriers for future loading, switching time, the time required for grain inspections, the use of cars as warehouses, too much unloading time at ports.

Score Hiring Practice

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) — A union at the General Electric Co. plant here was "waiting to hear from Washington" today in answer to a letter protesting the hiring of 100 skilled workers from England and Scotland.

John Shambo, business agent for Local 301, International Union of Electrical Workers, said Tuesday the union had written to the U.S. Labor Department to protest the hiring practice.

The local represents about 11,000 workers at GE here. The company announced Monday that 100 workmen from overseas had been hired because "there are not enough qualified people" in the United States. The firm's spokesman said there was a shortage of toolmakers, electricians, plumbers and patternmakers.

James G. Stevens, manager of plant personnel practices, said that "we have hired more than 6,000 hourly employees in the past two years," but added: "We simply have been unable to fill all our skilled - job openings."

Give Warning

KRANSTON, R.I. (AP) — Some children once set up an early warning system for motorists. They stationed themselves down the road from police cars, and held signs saying, "police ahead."

Blaze in Ulster

Firemen from Ulster Hose Co. 5 and Glasco, Tuesday night extinguished a fire in the kitchen of a house on Glenrie Boulevard owned by Herman Langer of Glenrie Lake Park.

A spokesman for Ulster Hose Co. said fire partially burned a pillow in the house occupied by a tenant listed as Bova yesterday morning, and it was put in the kitchen sink. Last night the fire rekindled in the pillow, which fell from the sink, starting a fire in the flooring.

A call was made to a Kingston telephone operator and was referred to Glasco Fire Co., which responded. On arrival firefighters from that unit learned the fire was in the Ulster Hose Co. area and that fire unit re-

Legion Observes Child Welfare

The fourteen American Legion posts, of the the American Legion in Ulster County will join with 16,000 other community organizations of the American Legion and 14,000 local units of the Legion Auxiliary throughout the nation and overseas in the observance of Child Welfare Month during April.

In announcing the local participation of this 28th annual observance, past Ulster County Commander of the Legion, Edgar M. Maurer of Kingston, pointed out that child welfare is a year-round program of the Legion, but special attention is focused on this major area of endeavor during April.

The American Legion's child welfare program was born on the battle fields of Europe during World War I when shared dangers, and hardships created a deep sense of responsibility for the children of deceased and disabled comrades. Forty-eight years, and three wars later, this sense of responsibility has broadened to an awareness of the importance of preparing all America's children for future citizenship and leadership at a time when physical demands and spiritual challenges are the greatest in the nation's history.

America's future is staked on its 74 million youngsters of today. Recognized as a pioneer in many of today's child welfare concepts, the Legion is confident that a better tomorrow awaits these youngsters if today's adults will help them to acquire a healthy respect for the values which have withstood the change of the ages.

For the last 42 years, the Legion and its affiliated organizations have conducted an extensive child welfare program, involving an expenditure of $211 million, past County Commander Maurer declared.

"These expenditures reflect only a part of the Legion's total program in behalf of children and youth," he explained. "This program also has called for much effort and energy expended in the revision of child care concepts and the establishment of sound state and federal programs concerned with the care and protection of children."

Each of the 14 American Legion posts in Ulster County has a child welfare program which functions 365 days a year and 24 hours a day, but during April, each is planning a special "child welfare project" in their respective communities, Maurer said.

Past Post Commander Meyer Kaplan of Kingston, serves as co-chairman with Maurer on this Ulster County American Legion child welfare program.

Gives Mutton Bad Name

FORT SUMNER, N.M. (AP) — W.E. Overton, president of the National Wool Growers Association, says his organization is concerned about the quality of mutton and lamb purchased for U.S. troops overseas and the way GI cooks prepare it. He said poorly prepared dishes by military cooks in the past "ruined a whole generation" of Americans for the taste of mutton and lamb.

Snowplow Firm Strike

CLAYTON, N. Y. (AP)—Production lines were idle today at the Frink Snowplows Inc. plant in this St. Lawrence River village because of a machinists' strike for higher pay and added fringe benefits.

The strike began Tuesday night after the 110 members of Lodge 1797 of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers voted overwhelmingly to walkout. A union spokesman said the vote was 72-5.

In addition to higher pay and more fringe benefits the workers are seeking a non-compulsory overtime clause in their contract.

The contract expired April 1.

BEAVER DAM, Ky. (AP)—A small boy that Dorothy Gentry knows was being kept for the day by a friend of his mother. At lunchtime, the boy had trouble cutting his meat and the hostess asked if she could help. "That's all right," the boy said frankly. "We have meat this tough at home sometimes."

Jobless Rate Is Unchanged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's jobless rate was almost unchanged in March, at 3.6 per cent, the Labor Department reported today.

The department said a slower pace of economic activity in some lines was shown by declines in payroll employment in manufacturing and retail trade since January.

Arthur M. Ross, commissioner of labor statistics, told a news conference that "the economy has leveled off in recent months but has not receded...current measures of economic activity do not show a decline or recession."

The unemployment rate has moved narrowly between 3.5 and 3.9 per cent from January 1966.

Unemployment declined by 200,000 in March — about 100,000 more than usual for the period because of a sharp drop in teenage joblessness.

Ross explained that the teenage rate, tumbling around from month to month because of the small number in this category, there was little change in unemployment rates for adults and full-time workers.

During recent months, the department said, the size of the labor force has adjusted itself closely to changes in the employment level, leaving the unemployment rate virtually unchanged.

To Plan Bicentennial At Area Cantonment

In preparation for the bicentennial of the American Revolution and the 200th anniversary of events ranging over eight years from the "shot heard 'round the world" at Concord to "Washington's Greatest Victory" at New Windsor, a Revolutionary War Grand Roundtable will be held beginning at 10 a. m. Saturday, April 22, in the Public Building on the New Windsor Cantonment, on Temple Hill near Newburgh.

Sponsored by the American Revolution Roundtable of New York City and Bergen County, N. J., and the New Windsor Cantonment, it will feature a discussion of Revolutionary War roundtables and how best to prepare for the years 1975-1983. The theme will be "The American Revolution Bicentennial: Four Ways to Give It Life."

Reservations for the Revolutionary War Grand Roundtable may be made by writing the New Windsor Cantonment, P.O. Box 525, Vails Gate.

Dirt Ingested

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Floors of future homes will have tremendous — but healthy — appetite for dirt. So say students of Philadelphia College of Art, participating in a study sponsored by Armco Steel Corporation. Ingestive self-cleaning floors will obsolete today's manual devices. Tiny cells activated by easy pressure, such as walking, will suck in the dirt and transfer it to ducts under the floor, where forced air will carry it off.

Stratton Asks For Controls on Medical Programs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Samuel S. Stratton of New York says Congress must be more specific in setting the limits to which states can go in implementing medical-aid programs.

Stratton told the House Ways and Means Committee Tuesday that Congress must spell out "far more specifically and precisely than it did in 1965" the limits of medical aid.

Failure to do so, he said, could cause state plans to become far more costly than the federal medical aid plan "and could even end up undermining and destroying" medicare.

The committee is studying several amendments to the Social Security Act, under which medicare and medicaid are provided.

The Democrat from Amsterdam, N.Y., also told the committee that, contrary to what it may have heard from officials in New York State, the medical program "as presently implemented in that state, is not supported unanimously by the people by a very long shot."

Under terms of that state's plan, a family of four with an income of $6,000 after taxes and health insurance costs could be eligible for payment of hospital, hospital and dental bills.

General Gurney Succumbs at 72

SOUTHERN PINES, N.C. (AP) — Augustus M. Gurney, a retired Army general and a pioneer in the use of observation balloons, died Monday in Womack Army Hospital at Ft. Bragg after a long illness. He was 72.

Gurney, who retired with the rank of brigadier general in 1954, was born in Oneonta, N.Y. He was graduated in 1917 from the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., and served in both World Wars. During World War II he was on the General Staff Corps.

When Gurney retired, he was deputy chief of staff of the First Army at Governor's Island, N. Y.

Gurney leaves his widow, Gladys, and two daughters, Mrs. William K. Ferrell of Corvallis, Ore., and Miss Margaret Gurney of Oneonta.

Services will be held here Wednesday at the Brownson Presbyterian Church. A private burial ceremony will follow.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

A 10-million-watt floating nuclear power plant recently began operating on a test basis off the coast of Virginia. Built by the Army, it is mounted in the hull of a modified World War II Liberty ship. About 880 tons of concrete and 600 tons of lead provide a shield around the nuclear reactor and protect the operating crew, says The World Almanac. If proved successful, the floating plant could be towed to any port in the world to supply electricity for military operations or for communities hit by disasters.

Heart Institute At Benedictine Draws Over 300

The Fourth Annual Heart Institute for Nurses, sponsored by the Mid-Hudson Heart Association, Inc., was held at Benedictine Hospital. The first session was held Thursday, April 6th. Over 300 nurses attended.

The morning session for the Public Health Nurses started with a review of Anatomy and Physiology of the Heart given by Dr. Paul F. Formel, assistant professor of physiology at Albany Medical College. In his lecture he emphasized how the heart adjusts to stress conditions, and how a diseased heart must compensate to carry its workload.

This lecture was appreciated by all. Speakers From Albany Dr. Girard Craft, assistant professor of postgraduate medicine at Albany Medical College, spoke next. His subject was New Concepts of Therapy in the Acute Stage. He discussed the set up of cardiac care units and the training of nurses for work in these units. Dr. Craft also reviewed the types of medication used in management of this stage of cardiac disease. He emphasized the need for nurses to be skilled in mouth to mouth resuscitation. In the afternoon, Dr. Stuart Cooper, director of the Bureau of Heart Disease of the New York State Department of Health, spoke on New Concepts in Long Term Management of the Patient with Heart Disease. His lecture covered medical complications of heart disease and surgical treatment of heart disease. One of his major points was the need for rehabilitation for the patient after a heart attack. The program concluded with all attending the Institute viewing a film entitled Prescription for Life. Dr. Edward B. Cross was the key-note speaker at the session for hospital nurses on Coronary Care Units. Dr. Cross, chief of Coronary Heart Disease Section, Heart Disease Control Program, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, spoke on the purpose of the Coronary Care Unit in the General Hospital. Dr.

Cross stated that hospitals with 200 or more beds should have a separate coronary care unit. These units are established for the purpose of reducing the morbidity and mortality of patients with acute myocardial infarctions. In addition Dr. Cross stated, the establishment of a coronary care unit tends to stimulate interest in new methods and clinical research. Miss Judith Henkel, RN, supervisor cardiac care unit, Buffalo General Hospital, outlined the Nurse's Responsibility in a Coronary Care Unit. She stressed the need for specially prepared nurses to work in these units. These nurses are able because of their special training to observe symptoms and prevent serious complications in the acutely ill patient with myocardial infarction. During the afternoon session

Miss Henkel acted as moderator of a panel of coronary care nurses who discussed the Observation and Management of a Patient in a Coronary Care Unit. Miss Rose Hamilton, supervisor, cardiac care unit at Glens Falls Hospital and Mrs. Margaret Carroll, supervisor, cardiac care unit, Benedictine Hospital, discussed routines and procedures in their particular units. A demonstration of monitoring equipment and the showing of the film, Prescription for Life, demonstrating cardio-pulmonary resuscitation.

Bad Speller

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A pile of sweat shirts with college names displayed on a department store table included one batch emblazoned with the word "perdue."

Why We Say --
"GIVE A WIDE BERTH"
FROM SAILING: When we say that we are giving people a "wide berth," we are keeping away from them. The saying started with sailing when many ships were held at port for quarantine purposes during an epidemic. Ships leaving the port would make a wide circle away from what they called "diseased ships" thus giving the ships a "wide berth."

what is the definition of a private brand?

To some people, it is a retailer's own brand created with selling price first in importance and quality second.

To us at A&P, it's the opposite.

Quality comes first.

Value...the best for the least is the rule for our private brands.

If this wasn't true, how foolish we'd be to invest, as we have, literally millions of dollars in processing plants and testing laboratories.

If all we wanted were products we could sell cheaply without quality control, anybody could produce them for us.

The idea of quality private brands isn't new at A&P.

As a matter of fact, it's one of our oldest policies — and by golly, we're proud of it.

Are A&P Private Brands a good reason for shopping A&P?

They're one of many.

Reagan Adopts Neutral Pose In Kuchel Fight

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — U.S. Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, a Republican who draws Democratic votes, is getting unexpected help toward re-election because GOP Gov. Ronald Reagan wants to preserve party unity in California.

Thus, the governor hopes to head a favorite son delegation to the 1968 Republican National Convention.

Wary of Fight

Some of Reagan's top political advisers have stepped in to tone down a potential party-splitting primary fight in June next year. It shapes up between Kuchel, the Senate's assistant GOP leader, and Max Rafferty, state superintendent of public instruction.

Rafferty, who holds a nonpartisan state job, is backed by Republican conservatives who say Kuchel is too liberal.

Reagan has adopted a neutral pose. An aide said the governor is firmly convinced "a bitter primary will help the Democrats in November and reduce the chance of a unified delegation to the convention."

Kuchel, said the aide, has "come up for re-election at the right time. Since we're working hard to keep the party together, he's the beneficiary of that."

Rafferty, however, has made it clear that he will run against Kuchel next year if he is assured of enough campaign contributions.

Kuchel's supporters bristled. They also were embittered over action of a conservative volunteer group, the California Republican Assembly, which criticized Kuchel and called for a candidate who will further Republican goals.

"These people who want to dump Tom Kuchel from his Senate seat are the same spoilers who wrecked Dick Nixon's campaign for governor of California in 1962 because he was 'too liberal,'" said Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

"Political Piranhas"

"They are political piranhas who feast upon their own, and whose appetites are satiated only by defeat of those Republicans with whom they disagree," Rafferty was one of the heroes of the CRA convention. He got loud applause with an attack on what he called a "senator who speaks out of both sides of his mouth."

Reagan had sought unsuccessfully to cool down the CRA, telling the grassroots workers he didn't mind their challenging Kuchel as long as they didn't rip the party apart with a violent attack.

His aides were privately unhappy at Rafferty's speech and at the CRA's anti-Kuchel action.

They already have asked the wealthy Southern California conservatives who originally financed Reagan's governorship campaign not to support Rafferty's candidacy. One big contributor, Los Angeles oilman Henry Salvatori, said Rafferty should stay out of the race.

Rafferty has said he would need about $1.5 million for a campaign and "I haven't come near it."

Dems Hope for Rafferty

Some Democrats are hoping Rafferty will enter — and win. Kuchel always has polled many Democratic votes. Also mentioned as a potential candidate is the retired Air Force chief of staff, Curtis E. LeMay.

Potential Democratic candidates are waiting to see what develops in the GOP. Los Angeles Mayor Samuel W. Yorty appears moving toward entering the Democratic race.

Party leaders against Yorty are talking about opposing him with either former State Controller Alan Cranston or Thomas W. Braden, Oceanside newspaper publisher and former president of the State Board of Education. And Jesse M. Unruh, a Democrat from Inglewood who has risen to speaker of the State Assembly, might also enter the race.

Dear Abby . . .

Certain Things Are Priceless

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: You recently wrote, "Nothing is more overrated than money. Ask anyone who has suffered a real tragedy, and he will tell you that no amount of money could have comforted him in his hour of sorrow."

I disagree with you. My husband and I worked and saved to buy a home of our own. It took us 14 years, but we finally got it. Then along came a tornado and our lovely home was demolished! Of course there was no insurance, so it was a total loss.

Now if some kind soul had come along and given us $55,000 it would have comforted us plenty in our hour of sorrow.

So please, Dear Abby, admit that even YOU can goof once in a while.

VICTIM IN TOPEKA

DEAR VICTIM: I admit that I "goof" more than "once in a while." But while losing one's worldly goods is indeed tragic, only he who has suffered an irreplaceable loss, such as a mate, a child, or a beloved friend, knows the meaning of "real tragedy."

DEAR ABBY: Some friends of ours recently had a golden wedding anniversary, so several weeks before that date I telephoned a local florist and asked him to send them two dozen long stemmed yellow roses. (Cost $24). The daughter of this couple had planned a party for her parents, and she used the same florist I called. She learned of my order so she told the florist they wouldn't be needing any extra bouquets, so to just accept my money and to deduct it from HER bill.

Since she is well-known and respected in town, I don't blame the florist for doing as she requested, however I am very hurt to think that I paid part of HER bill rather than to have sent my own flowers.

The daughter did tell her parents about my order, however, because I received a nice thank you note for my "intentions." Am I wrong to feel hurt.

HURT

DEAR HURT: No but the florist with whom you placed your order is every bit as guilty as the daughter who dreamed up that chintzy scheme. I can't imagine a reputable florist going along with such a suggestion without your approval. As I see it, you owe that florist NOTHING.

DEAR ABBY: I was at home preparing to go on a much-needed vacation when I received a phone call from my daughter's boss, telling me I should try to convince my daughter to get some help.

Her boss seems to think she is mentally ill as she has been coming to work with hosiery run to shreds and mismatched shoes. He says her hair is uncombed and she is very careless about her appearance lately. Do you think she is abnormal?

I have since spoken to a psychiatrist who tells me that these are usually signs of a sick mind. Please, Abby, tell me the right words to use when I tell my daughter because I know she will be very angry when I suggest that she needs help.

HEARTBROKEN MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: If you "know" she will be very angry when you suggest that she needs help, perhaps you are not the one to tell her. Talk to the psychiatrist again and ask for his suggestions.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "CAN'T FIGURE HIM OUT" IN ODESSA: A man who is constantly bragging about his sex life probably gets more pleasure out of bragging than he does from his sex life.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal, unpublished reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Canfield to Handle GE Transformers

Canfield Supply Company, Inc., has been appointed a franchised distributor of General Electric's line of dry-type transformers for the Central Hudson Valley area. Located at 25-29 Dederick Street, Canfield Supply will handle the complete line of GE transformer equipment. This includes general-purpose, distribution and buck-boost transformers, autotransformers, mercury lamp ballasts, 72-225 kva integral distribution centers, and portable oil testers.

General-purpose, distribution and buck-boost transformers are used to supply the correct voltage to lighting and power loads in office buildings, stores, hospitals, schools and industrial facilities.

Integral distribution centers are widely used in industrial facilities to step down and switch incoming electrical power for specific in-plant needs. Mercury lamp ballasts find wide use in industrial lighting installations.

Portable oil testers provide a convenient, accurate means for checking the dielectric strength of liquid insulation materials used in electrical apparatus.

Keep a Redhead in Your Life But Don't Buy Her Salt Taffy

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

Redheads have more fun than either blondes or brunettes because men are more vulnerable to them. No man feels he has lived life utterly unless he has been in love at least once with a red-haired girl.

The greatest exhibitionists among sports enthusiasts are spear fishermen and water skiers.

Putting on the Dog

Few midgeets care to have does as pets, and the breeds they are least likely to own are Great Danes or Chihuahuas.

Executives who put their feet on the desk while opening their mail rarely get to become head of their firms — except through inheritance.

If you want to cool a romance, the quickest way to do it is to send the girl a small box of salt water taffy on her birthday.

In 20 years soccer will probably be a bigger game in America than baseball.

NASA Rejects Idea Grissom Caused Blaze

WASHINGTON (AP) — The space agency rejected — after tests — suggestions that astronaut Virgil I. Grissom might accidentally have touched off the Apollo spacecraft fire, it has been learned.

The Grissom possibility was raised Tuesday night in testimony by Dr. John McCarthy of North American Aviation Inc. before a congressional panel investigating the accident.

McCarthy said Grissom might have kicked a wire, causing a spark that started the blaze.

A review board probing the fire, which claimed the lives of Grissom and two fellow astronauts, made no mention of possible involvement by Grissom.

Extremely Difficult
A reliable source said the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Manned Space Flight Center in Houston, Tex., with another astronaut. And, the source said officials decided it would have been extremely difficult for Grissom to have

N.Y. State Police Observed 50th Anniversary Tuesday

The New York State Police whom Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller proudly calls "one of the foremost law enforcement organizations in the nation," Tuesday marked its golden anniversary.

The State Troopers' 50 years of service to New York began on April 11, 1917 when former Governor Charles S. Whitman created the Department of State Police to provide law enforcement for the rural areas of the state.

Chandler Named
On May 2, 1917, Dr. George F. Chandler was named to head the newly formed state-wide police force. There were 232 men on original force. The force now numbers 2,966 scattered throughout the state with allowances made for an additional 250 men this year.

The first man sworn in was John A. Hopkins, born in Dublin, Ireland in 1889. He was stationed in Ulster County for many years until his retirement in 1943 after 27 years of service.

When the State Police were organized only Pennsylvania had a state-wide force. There were many objections to the forming of such a unit in New York which had been backed by Theodore "Teddy" Roosevelt. Legislation was eventually passed in 1917 and Gov. Whitman signed the law creating the department.

Shortly after Col. Chandler's appointment, 600 men appeared at the Assembly Chamber in Albany for the physical examination. Each man was required to write a 200-word report on his trip to Albany. This was designed to indicate a man's ability to write out reports. There were also tests of observation and general intelligence.

On Sept. 5, 1917 the training period was over. The Troopers, as they were called because they were on horseback, were given their first assignment at the State Fair. Gov. Whitman swore the men in at that time.

Resided Here
Col. Chandler who resided at the Gov. Clinton Hotel after his retirement, died Nov. 6, 1964 at the age of 92.

Besides seeing their numbers increase more than ten-fold in the past 50 years the troopers have made many advances in other areas.

Ulster County Sheriff William B. Martin, himself a Trooper for 20 years (1936-1956), gave an insight to the earlier years on the force.

Sheriff Martin said that when he joined the force in 1936 the top pay for trooper was $900 per year. He said that the Troopers worked six days a week with one night off and were allowed an additional three nights off during the rest of the month. When the sheriff retired in 1956 as a first sergeant he said his salary was $5,000 per year.

Greatly Improved
Kingston Station Commander Sgt. Donald Paulson told The Freeman yesterday that working conditions for the troopers in the past five years have improved greatly. He said his men now work an 8½ hour, five-day shift. Sgt. Paulson, a 13-year veteran on the force, said that when he

Only Two File For B of E Posts, Deadline Today

Although only two nominating petitions had been filed prior to 10:30 a. m. today by candidates seeking posts on the Board of Education of the Kingston School District Consolidated, more were expected before the deadline set for 5 p. m.

Announced candidates are Thomas W. Reynolds Jr., proprietor of Tom Reynolds Studio, 270 Fair Street, and Milton L. Reynolds a former mathematician teacher, who has worked in the Kingston IBM Development Laboratory for the last 11 years and is now a staff programmer in the Programming Systems group.

Milton Reynolds is finishing a one-year term on the Board of Education.

Two vacancies will be filled at the school district election slated for Tuesday, May 2. Registration of voters is scheduled for Friday, April 14 at the Municipal Auditorium, Broadway, Kingston. Registrars will sit from 10 a. m. to 7 p. m.

The two positions to be filled on the Board of Education are for five years each.

A one-night stand for school board candidates is being planned by representatives of all Kingston Consolidated School District Parent-Teacher groups. The event to which all candidates will be invited, is to be held Wednesday, April 26 at 7:30 p. m. in the J. Watson Bailey School.

The list of candidates for the two seats on the school board to be filled at the election next month, will be prepared by the clerk of the Board after the final date for filing nominating petitions, which is 5 p. m. today.

Group to Air Rondout Woes

Rondout area problems are to be discussed by committees named at a recent meeting to air them, it was announced today.

One on manpower will aid in seeking employment and another will assist in planning a daytime care center for children.

Albert Brown, Rondout community organizer, announced "a great deal of concern" at the meeting over housing problems, and said he was told by many there that they "were very upset over conditions of apartments they live in and that many of these have rats, roaches and many other health hazards."

The meeting was held in the Recreation Center, lower Broadway, and Brown emphasized that Neighborhood Service Center was in operation for use of the people and that over 200 families had received services there.

He emphasized that it was up to the people to bring their complaints to his office at 58 Broadway. The office, he said, can only operate by impetus of the people themselves getting together in committees.

Committees other than those named are being formed, and those interested may telephone 331-9464.

Closing of the Cornell Fire Station was also discussed. This was emphasized as a problem because many structures in the area are considered fire hazards.

He proposed organized effort to get it reopened.

Another meeting of area residents is to be held April 17.

According to a spokesman for the congressman money for the contract has not yet been appropriated.

Dems Rebuff Lindsay Budget

NEW YORK (AP) — The predominantly Democratic City Council and Board of Estimate have rebuffed Republican Mayor John V. Lindsay and overridden all 20 changes he had made in the city's record 1967-1968 capital budget.

The Board and Council Tuesday set the budget at $1,058,775, 797 (B) — $23,186,974 (M) less than the mayor had proposed. The revised budget exceeds the current one by $381 million.

The two bodies slashed by $10 million the $25 million allocated by Lindsay for the model cities program to upgrade slum areas in Harlem, the South Bronx and Central Brooklyn.

35 Killed In Algiers Air Crash

ALGERS (AP) — Thirty-five persons aboard an Algerian airliner were killed when the plane slammed into a mountain near an oasis in southern Algeria Tuesday night, news services reported. Most of those aboard were believed Europeans.

Four persons on the plane were said to have survived but three were reported seriously hurt.

The Algerian News Agency said the DC4 crashed as it apparently was preparing to land at Tamarrasset, an oasis and military post in the Ahaggar Mountains. The oasis is on the auto track across the Sahara Desert.

Investigators hurried to the scene.

The bodies of the victims were to be brought to Algiers today.

Charges Price Fixing in Gotham Milk Deliveries

NEW YORK (AP) — Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan has charged that some milk corporations and labor officials are joined in a multi-million dollar conspiracy to fix prices, rig bids and sell out-of-date milk to hospitals and other governmental agencies.

In papers filed in Federal Court Tuesday Hogan's office alleged that the firms had "defrauded the city and her milk consumers of millions of dollars" and now were attempting to thwart a grand jury probe.

Papers Filed
The papers were filed in opposition to a motion by lawyers for milk company officials who are trying to avoid appearing before the New York County grand jury.

In the affidavit submitted to Federal District Judge William B. Herlands, Asst. Dist. Atty. Joseph A. Phillips charged that "These corporations have taken milk which has been returned from stores as too old for sale and then repackaged it and delivered it to various governmental agencies including hospitals."

That the firms and certain labor leaders had agreed "to coerce, threaten and harass competitors of these milk corporations."

And that the firms and labor officials had agreed to raise and fix milk prices and had "threatened and intimidated other milk dealers who balked at their scheme."

Two Subpoenaed
The papers revealed that two Borden Milk Co. officials — Edward Brennan and Michael Cammarasano — had been subpoenaed to testify Thursday before the grand jury.

Phillips said the two officials advised his office last April 6 that would not sign waivers of immunity and testify, requesting instead adjournment of their appearance.

Officers of 15 smaller milk firms had earlier been called to testify and also refused to sign waivers. It was revealed.

The dispute moved into court when the officials challenged the local law requiring persons doing business with the city to waive their immunity or automatically lose their contracts for five years.

In their court action the officials contended that the statute is unconstitutional and moved for a temporary order restraining the use of that law. Judge Herlands reserved decision on the motion.

At the request of three Teamsters Union localities, the judge sealed a paragraph of the affidavit which contained the names of a dozen officers of "certain labor organizations."

3 Plead Guilty
In County Court Wednesday three indictments were disposed of when pleas of guilty were entered.

Clifton Bullock, charged with second and third degree assault, entered a plea of guilty to third degree assault through his attorney Edward Grene. Imposition of sentence was postponed until April 19 at 11 a. m.

Kenneth William Misner and Rudolph Charles Fink indicted on first degree grand larceny charges arising out of a larceny at Channel Master, entered pleas of guilty to petit larceny. Richard Gross appeared for defendants. Misner was sentenced to six months in the county jail and Fink received a suspended six months jail sentence. Misner will be required to serve the jail term.

Car Abandoned
A blue Ford car was reported abandoned on Lucas Avenue Extension early today. The car was reported off the road near the Daniel Garrity home. There were no plates on the car which bore inspection sticker 180092. The Sheriff's Department investigated.

LBJ Stresses Private Talks During Summit

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP) — President Johnson, who seems to prefer shirt-sleeve diplomacy to ceremonial talks, is emphasizing private meetings with fellow presidents at the Western Hemisphere summit.

Although today marked the start of formal sessions, Johnson squeezed two personal conferences into his morning schedule—with Presidents Arthur da Costa e Silva of Brazil and Fernando Belaunde Terry of Peru.

10 Similar Meetings
Johnson had similar meetings with 10 summit colleagues Tuesday. Three of these took place outdoors at the temporary White House with the U.S. chief executive and his guests in shirt-sleeves under a warm sun.

It has often been said that Johnson is at his best, and most persuasive, in informal chats that meander along without formal agenda.

That's the pattern here, whenever Johnson can arrange it. Before he goes home, he promises, he will meet each of his summit colleagues on this basis.

Perhaps it is significant that U.S. government officials, briefing newsmen in advance of the President's arrival, predicted that Johnson's informal sessions would be most important.

But no matter how wide-ranging or free-wheeling these meetings are, officials said they were not destined to yield any big decisions.

Discussing Tuesday's informal talks, presidential aide Walt W. Rostow told reporters: "They did not lead to and were not meant to lead to immediate decisions."

However, Rostow fingered a sheaf of papers and remarked, "I have a notebook here full of things to follow up."

Rostow likened Johnson's bilateral meetings to those the President has in Washington with visiting heads of government. They were nearly as long, too, averaging nearly an hour each. In Washington, a great deal of time is occupied by ceremonial.

Open Clashes Rare
If big decisions were absent, so too were disagreements, according to Rostow. He said open clashes are as rare here as in Washington or elsewhere.

There was talk of problems, however. The Dominican Republic wants a higher sugar quota from Washington. Johnson listened sympathetically and promised a decision, probably next month.

Columbia wants to sell the United States more coffee and textiles. Venezuela wants to sell more oil, though the product is high in smog-producing sulphur. Mexico wants help in wiping out the screwworm. Trinidad and Tobago want U.S. capital.

Ulster Kiwanis Hears Talk on County Airport

Edward DeGroff, a member of the Ulster County Airport Commission, was the speaker Monday night at the regular meeting of the Town of Ulster Kiwanis Club on the need of a county airport in the local area.

An excellent film displayed the industrial and business progress, and its resulting beneficial effect on a specific area because local people had the foresight to realize what air transport facilities can do for individual localities.

DeGroff commented that growth of a community in these times and near future will not only be dependent on highway complexes, water and rail transportation but will become increasingly so on the availability of local landing facilities for air transportation.

Large and small industrial and business concerns as a result of their diversification of plant locations depend more on air travel than ever before and many times accessibility of local landing facilities can be the prime factor of business executives in deciding where future plants should be located, the speaker added.

He closed the program by remarking that the FAA has Ulster County on a priority list as an area vitally needing a County Airport and with the growth forecast for the surrounding area, a county airport is of an absolute necessity.

Another Appeal Filed for Clay

CINCINNATI (AP) — The attorney for heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay filed motions in the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals again today seeking to halt Clay's induction into the Armed Forces.

All actions were filed under the name of Muhammad Ali, Clay's Black Muslim name.

One motion filed by Hayden C. Covington of New York involved an appeal from a decision by U.S. District Judge James F. Gordon of Owensboro, Ky., who had refused to halt the induction. It was an application for an injunction by the Court of Appeals to halt the induction which is scheduled for April 28 at Houston, Tex., pending an appeal from Judge Gordon's ruling.

The court filing was for a writ of mandamus to force Judge Gordon to impanel a three-judge court to hear the original case.

Covington said the actions were taken to keep the case alive because "the lawsuit would be killed if the champ is inducted."

General Farrell Dies, Had Part In Atom Bombings

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Thomas F. Farrell devoted his life to service on projects that brought public construction and military destruction.

As an engineer, Farrell served New York State as its commissioner of canals and waterways, and chief public engineer. As a brigadier general, Farrell directed field operations in the Marianas that resulted in the atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Farrell, who was 75, died Tuesday at St. Mary's Hospital here after a short illness.

RPI Graduate
He was born in Brunswick, N. Y., near Troy, and was graduated from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in 1912.

He served in World War I and was awarded the French Croix de Guerre with Palm and the Distinguished Service Cross.

Farrell returned to his native state after the war and eventually was named commissioner of canals and waterways. In 1930, he was appointed chief public works engineer.

When World War II began, Farrell re-entered the service as a lieutenant colonel. He soon was promoted to brigadier general and was put in command of construction in the China-Burma-India Theater.

Soon, he was named to serve as chief deputy to Maj. Gen. Leslie H. Groves in the production of the atomic bomb.

In 1945, Farrell was promoted to the rank of major general and was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross "for contributing greatly to shortening the war with Japan."

Two years later, he was appointed chairman of the New York City Housing Authority and in 1951, on assignment from the Army was named assistant manager for manufacturing for the Atomic Energy Commission.

Resigned in '51
He resigned from the Army and the Housing Authority later in 1951.

Farrell also directed a presidential board to appraise the damage done to Nagasaki and Hiroshima by the atom bombs and was a member of the Presidential Commission for the Bikini bomb tests.

The retired Army general had lived here since last October with a daughter, Mrs. Barbara Vucanovich. At other times in his varied career, Farrell had lived in Albany, N.Y., Washington, D.C. and New York City.

Farrell's wife, the former Ynez White of Pasadena, Calif., died in 1966, and a son, Capt. Thomas Farrell Jr., was killed in World War II.

Besides Mrs. Vucanovich Farrell leaves two sons, Col. Peter Farrell who is with the Army in Vietnam and Stephen Farrell of New York City; another daughter, Mrs. Patricia Naleib of Alexandria, Va.; two brothers, John J. and William F. Farrell, both of Troy, and a sister, Miss Anne Farrell of Cortland, N.Y.

Bloomington Vols Set Spring Fete, Start Campaign

At the monthly meeting of the Bloomington Fire Department held recently, it was announced by the dinner committee that the annual spring dinner will be held at Williams Lake Hotel, Saturday, May 6.

It will be a smorgasbord style dinner and will start at 7 p. m. Anyone who is interested in attending can reserve seats from the following committee members: Alan Tyler, Emil Slivka, or Dennis Purcell. The latest date to reserve tables will be May 2.

Chief Herbert Faurete said that the radio in the chief's car was installed and that the call number was Car 22.

Company President Charles Peterson said that firemen would distribute coin cards this year and asked all residents of the district to ask for telephone stickers if theirs are missing. Each member on the coin drive will have these emergency stickers. The stickers are fluorescent orange and are placed on the cradle part of the telephone. A person in need of the fire department need only to lift their phone and dial the emergency number, give their name and location of the fire, and if possible give the number of the fire zone that they are in. The zone number is printed on the sticker.

Auto Men Map Plans to Recall Plant Workers

DETROIT (AP) — The nation's auto industry today mapped plans to call back thousands of workers laid off because of parts shortages blamed on the trucking shutdown.

A tentative contract agreement, reached early today between the Teamsters Union and the trucking industry in Washington, came too late to prevent several thousand additional layoffs ordered by Ford Motor Co. for today's shifts.

"They'll go back to work as soon as possible," a Ford spokesman said. "It shouldn't take any longer than a day." Ford had planned to idle about 15,000 in five states today.

Officials of General Motors Corp. and Chrysler Corp. said they were trying to determine when 7,650 laid-off workers at the two firms could be returned to their jobs.

"We couldn't say just when that will be," a GM spokesman said.

The auto makers halted some assembly operations completely and reduced production on a number of other lines because of what they said was a dwindling supply of parts.

Although Teamsters Union haulaway drivers, who ship assembled vehicles from the factory to sales destinations, were not affected by the lockout, hundreds of drivers who haul vital parts to the plants were locked out.

The layoffs began Monday when General Motors idled 5,000 workers at its GMC truck and coach division plant in Pontiac.

Chrysler shut down truck assembly lines Tuesday at Warren, idling 2,000, and at St. Louis, Mo., laying off 650.

Maple Sap Untapped

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Too much snow and too little labor equalled untapped sap and a drop in maple syrup production in New York State this year.

The State Agriculture Department reported Tuesday that favorable weather conditions this month could bring this year's total production to that of 1966.

Heavy, late - winter snowstorms affected maple syrup production in the central and eastern regions of the state, the report said. Production was 16 per cent behind last year's.

In the western and North County areas, a manpower shortage and labor problems were factors in this year's decrease in production.

About 35 per cent of maple syrup operations in the western counties were idle because of a lack of help.

Gotham Families Are Homeless But Only for 48 Hours

NEW YORK (AP) — With goldfish bowl in hand, young Gregory Perez stood in his rundown tenement apartment and took a last long look at the familiar walls before moving out.

Soon after the boy left Tuesday, a whistle blew and workmen swung sledgeham against the old and paint-thick plaster to begin a 48-hour process of "instant rehabilitation."

When 11-year-old Gregory and his pet goldfish return Thursday at 10 a.m., they'll be living in the same lower East Side building but in a brand new apartment.

By then the crews will have stripped the fixtures from the 72-year-old five-story structure and replaced them with prefabricated core units lowered through holes cut in the roof.

Gangs of plumbers and electricians will have followed to make the connections and a building that was barely livable, though structurally sound, will contain 15 modern apartments.

The project is being paid for by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. Secretary Robert C. Weaver will be on hand with Mayor John V. Lindsay to welcome the tenants when they move back in.

Expense of the instant renewal was estimated at $11,000 per apartment but a spokesman said that figure included the cost of developing the program and would decrease in the future.

The process was first tried out — over a longer period of time — on a vacant tenement next door.

The 11 families, and Gregory's goldfish, are being put up at a nearby hotel while the work is being completed.

Carol Haussamen, president of one of the foundations collaborating in the project, said the new technique could help the city's housing situation.

"There are 58,000 such tenements in the city," she noted. "This kind of rehabilitation is cheaper than the conventional kind. And it has the big advantage of dislocating the tenants for a very short time."

Solons To Attend Air Show

By FRED HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — As many as 60 congressmen plan to attend the Paris Air Show next month as expense-paid observers.

Air Force and State Department arrangements to handle a delegation up to that size came to light in a cable from the State Department to the U.S. Embassy in Paris. It said the department understands a large group of congressional delegates will attend the International Air Show in Paris May 26-June 4.

AF Aid Sought

The cable noted that the Air Force, which has primary responsibility, had asked for help in obtaining 60 single rooms in first-class hotels, plus 30 rental cars with English-speaking French drivers.

The hotels and cars are to be paid for out of counterpart funds earmarked for congressional committees, the cable said.

Counterpart funds are U.S.-owned local foreign currencies which cannot be exchanged for gold or dollars, but which can be used only to meet official U.S. costs within the countries involved.

In addition, the Air Force will provide transatlantic transportation for the congressional observers. The Air Force said it does not yet know how many congressmen will make the trip.

"Normally, the Air Force does not receive final official party listings until a week or 10 days in advance of actual travel," it said in response to an inquiry.

No Cost Figures

For that reason, a spokesman said, it was not possible to give any cost figures, either for the

GOP Solons To Study Candidates

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans plan to explore Michigan Gov. George Romney's presidential prospects and positions and have a look later at those of former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, who has stepped into a leadership vacuum among moderate Senate Republicans, said today Romney will be the top guest at a meeting April 19.

Nixon Invited

He said Nixon will be invited to sit down with GOP members at a subsequent session. He added, "I would love to have Gov. Reagan if he can come."

Gov. Ronald Reagan has said he hopes to become California's favorite son candidate for the 1968 presidential nomination and will not withdraw from primaries in states where the individual's consent is not required to place his name on the ballot.

Morton said the idea behind the proposed meetings is to have Republican senators who will play active roles in next year's campaign get better acquainted with prospective party nominees.

"Of course, they all know Nixon and know pretty well where he stands on the issues," Morton said. "But some of them have not had a chance to talk with Romney personally and get his ideas at first hand."

Foresees Unity

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said in another interview he thinks the meetings are likely to produce a greater feeling of unity among Republicans.

"There are several viewpoints represented in our party but I believe there is a lot of common ground that can be reached among us which will prevent any division of opinion that would disrupt the 1968 campaign," he said.

Dirksen said there will be no efforts at the meetings to line up Republican senators for any particular candidate.

Morton underscored this, noting that some of the senators involved have been mentioned as possible candidates for first or second place on the 1968 ticket. Among these are Sens. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, Jacob K. Javits of New York and Morton himself.

Might Be Blue Laws

BLUE SPRINGS, Mo. (AP) — Residents of this community east of Kansas City can't be sure they're living up to all the Blue Springs ordinances. A firm codifying the city ordinances reported those numbered 10 through 99 were missing. Those ordinances dated back to 1935. City officials have no way of knowing what the missing laws contain. "We have looked everywhere for them," Mayor Virgil L. Willis said.

Rev. Redlon Is Named President Of Bonnie School

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rev. Reginald A. Redlon has been named president of St. Bonaventure College in Allegany, N.Y.

The announcement was made Tuesday from the headquarters of the Holy Name Province of the Franciscan Order in New York.

Father Redlon succeeds the Rev. Francis W. Kearney, who served in the post for the past six years. Father Kearney will join the staff of Siena College in Loudonville, N.Y.

Father Redlon, 45, is a native of Portland, Maine, and was ordained in 1949.

He earned his doctorate in philosophy at Louvain university in Belgium and taught philosophy at the order's Rye Beach, N.H., Study House.

He was named superior of the Study House in 1961, and early this year was named a provincial counsellor to the order's superior. There are three other priests in the counsellor group.

Father Kearney, 55, taught philosophy for 16 years at St. Bonaventure, St. Stephen's Monastery, Croghan, N.Y., and the St. Francis Study House in Rye Beach, N.H. He asked last December to be relieved of his assignment, saying, "I would prefer to return to teaching."

Kodak Schedules Negro Training In Rift on Hiring

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—A dispute between Eastman Kodak Co. and a civil rights group over recruitment of employees has led to a new, local hiring agreement among 40 businesses and industries, a clergyman says.

The agreement, announced Tuesday, calls for the hiring and training of 1,500 hard-core unemployed persons in the next 18 months, the Rev. Lloyd A. Peterson, executive secretary of the Presbytery of the Genesee Valley, said.

The employment program will be administered by a newly formed group, called Rochester

Jobs Inc., a non-profit, non-partisan, non-political organization, the clergyman said.

The Kodak dispute was based on its rejection of what FIGHT, a militant civil rights group, said was a mutual agreement to hire and train about 600 unemployed Negroes recruited by FIGHT.

Pay Docked, Grounded Reprimand Pilots For Worst Error Of Vietnam War

SAIGON (AP)—The U.S. Air Force has reprimanded three of its pilots, docked their pay and temporarily grounded them for the worst bombing mistake of the Vietnam war.

Strike Killed 105
A 7th Air Force board of inquiry cleared a fourth pilot who flew the two-plane strike on March 2. The strike killed 105 Montagnards — mountain tribesmen — and wounded 250 in the village of Lang Vei, in the northwest corner of South Vietnam.

The board of inquiry said the bombing mistake was "inadvertent and the result of navigation errors." It ordered the disciplinary action taken against U.S. personnel responsible for a bombing mistake in the Vietnam war. About a dozen such incidents have been reported, with about 500 casualties.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to rebound early today from the steep losses taken Monday and Friday. Trading was fairly active.

Gains of leading issues went from fractions to 1 or 2 points. Advances outnumbered declines by 3-to-1. The industrial average, however, made a modest gain because many blue chips performed indifferently.

Beckman Instruments, up about 2 points, was ahead on volume at the start, followed by American Motors and Sperry Rand, which added fractions.

Polaroid dropped a point of its large gain Tuesday.

First Charter Financial, up 1, and Great Western Financial, ahead a fraction, were the most heavily-traded savings and loans to respond to the reduction of interest rates the institutions must pay on some $5.1 billion of outstanding loans.

IBM and Xerox were up about 2 each. Gains of a point or so were made by Goodrich, Douglas Aircraft, New York Central and Eastern Air Lines.

Wall Street had some encouragement in the news that trucks had begun moving throughout the nation following a tentative agreement between management and union, as well as news of a fairly stable unemployment rate.

Opening blocks included: Chrysler, up 4 at 38 1/2 on 500 shares; Beckman Instruments, unchanged at 56 1/2 on 12 500; and Sperry Rand, up at 31 1/2 on 13,600.

General Motors opened on 4,500 shares, unchanged at 76 1/2. Monsanto opened on 6,800 shares, off 1/4 at 43.

Prices rose on the American Stock Exchange. Fractional gains included Xtra Inc., Technicolor, Oak Electro-Netics, Microdot and CCL.

Prods Both To Avoid U.S. Tieup

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, operating with let plane speed in a ground transport crisis, signed into law today the resolution barring a nationwide railroad strike for an extra 20 days.

Passed Tuesday
The National Mediation Board announced it had received word the President, at a hemispheric summit meeting in Punta del Este, Uruguay, had affixed the signature that made the measure effective. Almost simultaneously word of the signing came in dispatches from Punta del Este.

Congress, showing its own strong burst of speed, had passed the measures only Tuesday.

Early morning action by the chief executive made it clear the document had been hurried to him in an overnight flight to make sure of heading off the proposed walkout of railroad shopcraft workers at 12:01 a.m. Thursday. Flight time is 10 hours or more.

"Terrible Consequence"
The mediation board, in announcing the signing, also said it had sent out telegrams questioning the unions to cancel their strike authority. The board said the effect of the resolution is that no walkout can be called before May 3.

Even before formally receiving the resolution for signature, Johnson had called on management and the workers to make maximum use of the new 20-day period to avoid "the terrible consequences" of a nationwide rail stoppage.

Praises Congress Speed
He praised Tuesday's swift and overwhelming passage of the resolution in both houses. The Senate vote was 81 to 1 after a 90-minute debate. The House debated just 20 minutes before its 396-8 vote of approval.

The resolution was shipped by air to Uruguay for the President's signature.

The 20-day breather would extend a current 60-day truce that has blocked a strike by six railroad shopcraft unions which would hamstring railroads which account for 95 per cent of the nation's rail freight.

Johnson, asking Congress for the extension, had warned of the catastrophic effect of a prolonged rail strike on the nation's economy.

He said it could boost unemployment as high as 15 per cent, force nearly immediate layoffs of 40,000 coal miners and cripple attempts to supply U.S. fighting forces in Vietnam.

Guard Interests Rocky Advises County Officers

LIBERTY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson Rockefeller has urged local governments to see that their interests are protected in the drawing up of the new state constitution.

"I believe in strong, effective local government," Rockefeller said, "not only out of philosophical conviction but because it is eminently practical as well."

The governor addressed a meeting of the County Officers Association Tuesday at Grosinger's Hotel.

Revision of local government structures to eliminate duplication of services has been urged by a joint legislative committee.

In his speech Rockefeller also noted that several state agencies, including the office of local government and the office of planning coordination are equipped to help local governments.

You must be ever on guard to insure that the proposals of the convention will not paralyze local government, but instead will improve your capabilities, encourage your initiative and release your full energies," Rockefeller said.

Fish Given Panama Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Hamilton Fish, former chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, and Prince Bassaraba von Brancovan, Chevalier de Malte, were awarded the Eloy Alfaro Grand Crosses and Diplomas Tuesday night.

The award was given in "recognition of their immeasurable service to international understanding and good will and their outstanding contribution to the improvement of world culture by the Eloy Alfaro International Foundation of the Republic of Panama."

The foundation was named after the former president of Ecuador.

Others who have received the award include the late presidents Herbert Hoover, Franklin D. Roosevelt and John F. Kennedy, and Douglas MacArthur, Harry Truman, Dwight Eisenhower and President Lyndon Johnson.

After winning Democratic endorsement, he announced on July 27, 1965 that he had accepted Conservative Party endorsement.

Proposes Pipeline For Water

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A major step in ending water supply problems in Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware may be a multi-million dollar pipeline to carry water east and west from the Susquehanna river, according to a group studying water needs.

The Mason Dixon Water Project made the suggestion Tuesday at a hearing conducted here by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, 10th in a series of 22 to determine long-range water needs in the northeastern United States.

Orders Study
Congress ordered the engineering study in October, 1965. It is being directed by Brig. Gen. F. P. Koisch.

Other hearings in Pennsylvania will be held Wednesday in Harrisburg and Thursday in Wilkes-Barre.

Ten counties in Pennsylvania had joined the pipeline project and others indicated their support, said State Rep. Benjamin J. Reynolds, of Chester Pa., chairman of the pipeline project.

Robert G. Struble, West Chester, Pa., executive director of the Chester County Water Resources Authority, said the Brandywine Valley Association, operating in Pennsylvania and Delaware, recommends the construction of 12 dams and reservoirs in a watershed basin which "would meet our water needs for the next 50 years and also provide flood control area."

Cites Responsibilities
Another witness, Victor A. Appleyard, executive manager of the Chester Municipal Authority, suggested "the supplying of public water and water used by industry from a public system be retained as the prime responsibilities of local water works organizations."

Speaking of the 1965 drought Water Commissioner Samuel S. Baxter said, "the semi-hysteria of 1965 was centered on the condition in New York City."

"The physical fact that the existing reservoirs were low and that available water had to be rationed, overshadowed the fact that other means of supply had been available to New York City if they had built the necessary facilities."

Con-Ed Fuel Change
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Consolidated Edison Co. of New York Inc. has been directed to fuel its boilers with low sulfur content oil and coal in place of natural gas by April 1, 1968.

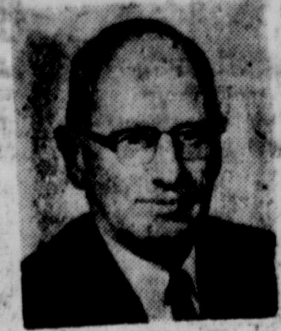

That is the effect of a ruling handed down Tuesday by Francis L. Hall, an examiner for the Federal Power Commission.

Hall ruled that Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp. should be authorized to supply additional natural gas for use as boiler fuel only until the April 1968 date. By that time, Hall ruled, Con-Ed should be able to shift permanently from high to low sulfur content oil and coal to reduce air pollution, thus making it unnecessary to use gas as a boiler fuel.

The examiner's decision will become a commission order if within 40 days no review is initiated.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING....

Balanced Fund Brings Income

Q "I am 62 years old and have been ill for two years. We own $11,000 in Series E bonds, Keyes Fibre stock, New England Fund and $10,000 in savings. I need more income. Should I sell my mutual fund?" —D. A.

A "I am sincerely sorry to read of your illness. If you wish to exchange your Series E bonds — which accumulate interest — for Series H which pay interest by check every six months. You have another alternative, adopted by many retired persons. You can redeem $1,000 matured Series E bonds in each of your retirement years when the income tax on accrued interest is relatively low. This procedure of course would dissipate your capital over the 11-year period. I would hold Keyes Fibre, which yields four per cent on a dividend which could be increased. Your New England Fund appears well-managed and is designed to provide income and growth. If you include payments from capital gains, your yield is good and I see no reason to sell. Your savings bonds represent a cash reserve, but you might — if necessary — increase your income moderately by putting part of your savings into Maytag and Gamble-Skogmo, yielding around 5 1/2 per cent."

Q "We are a young couple. I earn $90 a week and have inherited $10,000 and want to invest it. Should I buy a house? Should I open a savings account or buy growth stocks?" —W. H.

A "I assume that you have little knowledge about stocks — how to buy them or keep track of them. Accordingly, I advise you to put $8,000 into an equity on a house if the carrying charges do not too greatly exceed your present rental costs. If you select a good house in a stable neighborhood, I believe your property should ultimately increase in value and give you some inflation protection. The balance belongs in a savings account where your principal will be always intact."

Big Machine Is Watching

By BETTY CANARY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
I knew it. I knew it would happen. We soon will be completely computerized and at the absolute mercy of rivets and cogs and ratchets. Big Machine is here.

Years ago we should have realized. The minute they infiltrated and changed the telephone prefixes to numbers.

The postal zone numbers didn't surprise me because I was conditioned long before that. You see, when I got my first job (bagging caramel corn), I was excited about sending for my Social Security number. I thought lots about how my country wanted ME on file because I was important. I regretted the fact that the desire was for a cut of my caramel corn money. But by this time they had my number.

When I started driving I rebelled. I have never remembered a license number. And, so it went. When ZIP arrived to join my growing digital identification profile, well, I held out, even against curt little cards the postmaster sent me.

I have fought the banks about check numbers and I have fought magazine circulation departments.

From the beginning I have refused to speak into a recording device when it answers a phone call. I decided one has to have a little dignity and I was NOT going to talk to a machine.

However, recently, when an elevator told me to step back, it was different. Oh, I refused, of course... endangering my shoes but keeping my self-respect. I became frightened later in the day only when I realized I had not been surprised to hear an elevator giving me orders! See how THEY get to you?

So, the handwriting is on the wall. O.K. The tape is in the computer. In a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, there was a report by one Dr. Louis West saying the University of Oklahoma Medical Society has come up with a robot psychiatrist.

It's polite even. You knock on the office door and no nurse greets you. You just stand there until Big Machine says pleasantly, "Please come in and sit down."

Of course, you go in and sit down. You're not going to fight, are you? After all, you're here for Big Machine help.

Well, after you get all comfy, Big Machine says, "Shall we begin?"

You begin all right. You not only begin... you keep on. If you stop talking for two minutes, Big Machine shows programmed impatience and prompts with, "You were saying?"

If you speak too softly, Big Machine doesn't lean forward to hear. It just urges, "Please speak up!"

And, if you at least start acting human and grow loud and boisterous, Big Machine reasons with you. It says calmly, "There is no need to shout... I'm only a machine." And, right here the patient either bursts into tears or goes berserk.

See what they're doing to us... doing to us... doing to us...

In 1811, the first colonists to reach the Pacific Coast arrived at Cape Disappointment, Wash. and founded the trading post of Astoria.

In 1896, the first modern Olympic, held in the ancient stadium in Athens, ended.

In 1900, Congress granted civil government to Puerto Rico.

In 1945, the U.S. 9th Army crossed the Elbe River in Germany and headed for Berlin, only 60 miles away.

In 1949, Stanley Hiller landed his helicopter at the foot of Wall Street in New York. Hiller who had started out in Palo Alto, Calif., thus completed the first transcontinental helicopter flight.

When to Return Opponent's Lead

In the early days of contract, Mike Gottlieb of New York was one of the greatest if not THE greatest defensive player. He was also famous for some of his

It is a good general rule to follow this principle when on defense. If declarer plays one suit, you should play another but just as you shouldn't always return your partner's lead, you should occasionally return your opponent's.

South wasn't the least bit happy about his six club contract. Somehow or other he felt that his partner might have insisted on playing diamonds.

On the other hand, South had nothing to gain by complaining and he started out to do the best he could with the tools at hand.

He won the heart lead and played the queen, king and ace of spades in order to get rid of dummy's ten of hearts. He was pleased to see the jack drop from the West hand but he still had to attack diamonds.

He led a diamond and finessed dummy's queen. East was in with the king and led a heart to force dummy. South ruffed, led out four rounds of trumps and spread his hand.

There would have been no defense against the proper six diamond contract but East could have beaten the club slam if he had thought to lead back a diamond when he got in with the king. Then, if South pulled trumps he wouldn't be able to get to dummy for the rest of the diamonds; if he did not pull trumps, West's fourth trump would beat him.

Will Call It State Fair Again

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — "Simple Simon met a pie-man going to the exposition..."

That's what they began calling the annual State Fair at Syracuse five years ago — the "New York State Exposition."

Officials in charge of the fair thought "exposition" had a classier ring to it and would reflect the fair's more-modern character.

It long since had ceased to be mainly a cattle show, they pointed out. Industrial and scientific exhibits are very much in evidence.

So the name was changed. But it didn't catch on.

For one thing, "exposition" proved to be a mouthful — and a line — full, in advertisements and on bumper strips.

For another, many people complained that the new name lacked the nostalgia of the old, familiar "State Fair."

Gov. Rockefeller agreed during his last visit to the fairgrounds, last September.

As a result, Sen. Tarkenton Lombari Jr. and Assemblyman John H. Terry, Syracuse Republicans, drew up a bill mandating a change back to "State Fair."

It swept through both houses of the Legislature.

Rockefeller's signature on the measure today made it official.

So, once again, it's "Heigh-ho come to the fair..."

Camp Tri-Mount Reservations Up

Reservations are increasing for Camp Tri-Mount, the camp operated by the Rip Van Winkle Boy Scout Council, according to Alex Macdonald, Scout executive.

To date, 16 troops representing 443 Boy Scouts have signed up to use the camp, located in Greene County.

"The reservations have shown a sharp increase," said Macdonald, "and this indicates the need for prompt action on the part of those troops which intend to go to camp but haven't made reservations yet."

Two of the troops already signed up are out-of-Council troops. One is from the North Bergen County Council in New Jersey, and the other is from the Suffolk County Council on Long Island.

To date these Rip Van Winkle Council troops have reserved space at Camp Tri-Mount: Troops 6, 9 and 10 of Kingston; Troop 16 of Stone Ridge; Troop 20 of Hurley; Troop 26 of Port Ewen; Troops 32 and 36 of Saugerties; Troops 41 and 141 of Catskill; Troop 45 of Coxsack; Troop 100 of Palenville; Troop 70 of Highland, and Troop 171 of Clintondale.

Camp Tri-Mount is situated at the foot of three of the five highest mountains in the Catskills—Black Dome, Black Head and Thomas Cole. The original camp property of 150 acres was purchased in 1946 by the Council, and in 1960 an adjoining 350-acre tract was purchased to increase the camp tract to 500 acres.

Deadly Enemy of Communists

Pacification Teams Offer Bright New Life in War-Ravaged Vietnam

By JOHN T. WHEELER

PHU HUU, Vietnam (AP) — Pham Ba Thu doesn't look like a killer, a political activist and talented propagandist. With his crinkled, shy smile and a hat several sizes too big, he seems boyishly naive and slightly ridiculous.

Only the 45 automatic worn with casual assurance on his hip separates him from the other black-clad peasants of this central Vietnamese village where Thu and other members of a government pacification team operate.

For the Viet Cong underground in this village, Thu is a deadly enemy. Unless they can kill or drive the team out, some member of the team probably will root them out one day.

Death in the Dark

There will be no high noon shootout between the 59-man government team and the Communists on the dusty, sun-drenched road splitting Phu Huu. Death will come at night by knife, gun and—as it already has—by mortar shell.

Thu and his comrades already have spotted eight Viet Cong in Phu Huu, an impoverished village of nearly 1,000 persons in Khanh Hoa Province.

None has been arrested. The cadre hope they will give away others of the Communist infrastructure that ruled here until the government men arrived two months ago.

The Viet Cong team is organized about like the government one that Thu served as assistant team leader and political officer. Because the government men are fairly well armed and careful, the village Viet Cong are relatively helpless unless they can catch one of the team unawares at night.

Twenty members of the Communist team, the fighters, are roaming with Viet Cong units nearby waiting for the government to pull its regular battalions out of the area. In the past, Saigon always has pulled out regular troops after weeks or months of dull pacification duty.

The pacification cadre almost always has gone just behind the government troops.

Troops Will Stay

This time is different. The government battalions are committed for a year or more, however long pacification here takes. And captured Viet Cong documents show that the Communists consider the cadre to be far better trained and dedicated than those fielded by Saigon in the past. Attacks on government teams and protective government forces also testify to the team's effectiveness.

The 1967 pacification program with 400 cadre teams spread through 50 so-called target areas seeks to return 600,000 peasants to government control this year. After eight years of grander projects that ended in failure, many American advisers consider the present goal realistic. There are 10 million living in the countryside, nearly half under Viet Cong control.

At 23, Thu is an old hand at the deadly game of vying with the Viet Cong for control of contested areas. He was a member of a Political Action Team, a counterterrorist program set up by the Central Intelligence Agency in 1962. These have been disbanded with most members absorbed by the revolutionary development ministry for the new program.

Thu is a high school graduate who passed up a college draft deferment to join the government force. His father is an army officer.

Different Kind of Fighter

Why didn't he follow his father's footsteps? "The soldier kills the enemy. We kill the enemy, too," he says. "But also we help the people to build a better country when the fighting is over."

"In the old times the people had high spirits for the Viet Cong. Now our revolution and a new life under the government is better. The spirit of the people now knows our way is better."

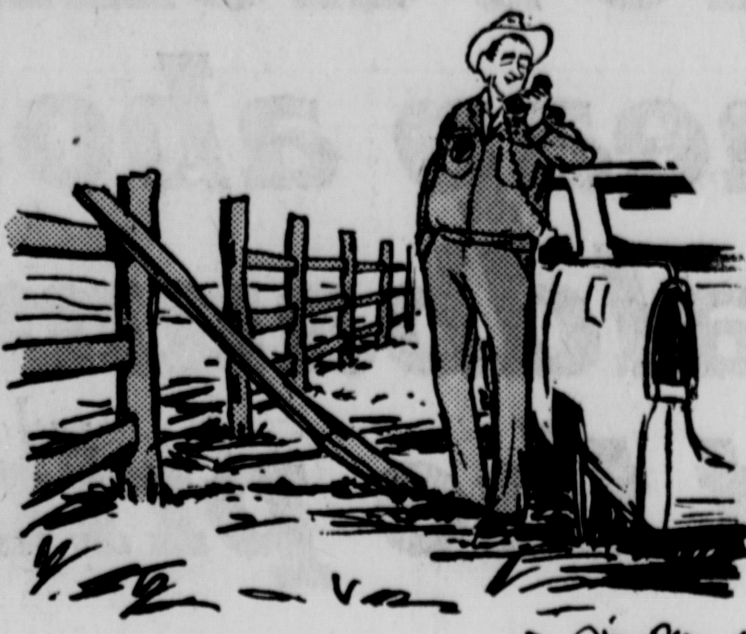

"This is because the VC only promise war and destruction for many years to come. We promise a new life and peace now."

The new program does not devote the great amount of time and effort spent before in punishing the Viet Cong. It tries to save simply: Join the government side for peace, security and a new life.

The most advanced pacification hamlets are called An Doi Moi — new life villages.

People are cautious about giving any open support to the cadre. Too many times in the past the government officers have come promising prosperity and security, only to go away, later without providing either. Those who collaborated with government cadres have often been killed, tortured or stripped of everything they own.

Mai Gen. Nguyen Duc Thang, head of the new pacification program, says this time the government troops will not leave and turn to more pressing duties of hunting down main-force Communist units. The bulk of Thang's 59-man teams are military men first, to handle Viet Cong who slip past militia and regular units assigned to screen off the villages.

But each team also has experts on political education, culture, hygiene and rudimentary medicine, agriculture, public works and the mechanics of setting up and operating cooperatives that will ensure the farmers of the best break in the market place. Countrywide, Thang rates his 400 teams, some 24,000 men, as about half effective and half below the mark.

The idea is not for the teams to dig wells, start fish ponds, erect schools and repair bridges on their own, but to find out what people really need, make arrangements with Vietnamese and American aidmen and then get the people to do their own work with help and leadership from the cadres.

This way if the Viet Cong slip in some night and blow up a bridge or school house, they will find a much different reaction from the people than if it were a project put up by the government and the Americans.

Spooky Mansion Is Natural for Karloff's Party

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Last week they gave Boris Karloff a party — the first in his honor during almost a half-century in Hollywood.

The occasion was the release of a Decca album "An Evening with Boris Karloff and His Friends," which features scenes from the actor's films, including "Frankenstein," "Bride of Frankenstein" and "Son of Frankenstein."

Boris 'At Home'

The site for the party was natural enough: The Magic Castle, a spooky old mansion off Franklin Avenue where magicians meet. It's a club where diners and drinkers are sometimes joined by vamoires and by Magic Castle personnel.

Karloff seemed at home in such surroundings, and he responded with his usual good humor. Unlike some stars who resent being typed in their most famous roles, the London-born actor — real name: William Henry Pratt — has always spoken affectionately of the cliff-towered monster he first played in 1930.

"I am a very lucky man," he reflected. "Here I am in my 80th year (he'll reach the mark Nov. 23) and I am still able to earn my bread and butter at my profession. I am one of that very small family of the human race who happens to thoroughly enjoy his work. If I didn't enjoy it, I wouldn't go on."

Keeps Active

Despite a leg brace to aid an arthritic knee, he maintains an active schedule. He and his wife now live in a London flat and a cottage in Hampshire, but he comes here twice a year for films. During the past year he also made an "I Spy" in Spain and worked with Raquel Welch in "The Sorcerers" in London.

Karloff is now in his 11th year of a Reader's Digest radio program which is carried by 400 U.S. stations. He tapes the daily show wherever he goes.

He had a lively run in recent years making horror pictures for American International.

Paltz Driver Hurt in Mishap

Curtis King, 39, of Box 155A, New Paltz, was injured at 10:45 p. m. Tuesday, when his car went out of control and hit a utility pole off South Ohioville Road, Town of New Paltz.

Trooper Brian O'Connor of the Highland Substation said King reported he was driving north on the road when glaring headlights of an oncoming car caused him to drive off the right shoulder and the vehicle hit the pole after traveling 150 feet.

King was treated at New Paltz Medical Center for a laceration near his left eye. Troopers Stanley Kowalski and James Kelly investigated.

WW I Vets to Meet

There will be a special meeting of Pangburn McBroom Barracks No. 864, veterans of World War I, on Monday evening at 8 p. m. at the VFW Home, 552 Delaware Avenue for the election of officers for 1967. All members are requested to be present.

Continues Verbal Battle on Merits Of Reapport Plan

In what is fast becoming a running, verbal battle between John O. Bonilla, Town of Woodstock Democratic chairman and author of the recently adopted resolution which will see Democratic candidates for County Legislature seats nominated in district caucuses, and John Marquardt, legislative assistant to Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson and critic of the Bonilla plan, the Woodstock resident today answered Marquardt's most recent counter-charge.

Said Bonilla: "It came as a happy surprise to me to see that Jack Marquardt had promoted me to 'political boss at the town and county level.' My wife would be at quite a loss to reconcile this image with the man to whom she is married. A political boss is a professional politician who controls votes and dictates measures by means of the patronage that he dispenses. As an elected official of the minority party in Ulster County, I am unable to appoint any of my 'party stalwarts' to any salaried position. Perhaps Marquardt could surreptitiously siphon off to me some of the many appointments made through him as Assemblyman Wilson's full-time assistant so that I could live up to this magnificent title. I might even be able to persuade some of my fellow party members that I am more powerful than they have heretofore thought."

"As a Democrat I welcome Jack Marquardt's decision to run for County Legislator. Far be it from me to discourage him or any other member of his party from contesting the candidates chosen by his party leaders. It might even be an indication that there is some democracy in the Republican party locally after all."

"As far as the announcement of my candidacy is concerned, prior to any party caucus, convention, or what have you, would he rather that I wait until after the caucus? At least now anyone in my own party who wishes to oppose me can do

Dick Van Dyke Gives Excellent Solo Performance

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Van Dyke did just about everything in his first special television program Tuesday night. It was an impressive demonstration of versatility. He moved from Mack Sennett-style comedy to magic tricks to playing Bach on a harpsichord with complete ease. The star, every inch a clean-cut, modest, nice so openly and will have the time to prepare a campaign against me. I am sure that in such an event the Democratic voters of Woodstock would make this choice on more important issues than the typographical error to which Marquardt makes reference and which inadvertently placed me in the wrong legislative district, affording him an uncalculated opportunity to make a smirking remark about my knowledge of boundary lines.

guy, was amusing and lovable all the way.

The hour opened with old-style silent film comedy — speeded up action and all — showing Van Dyke, stuck in Los Angeles traffic, using everything from a supermarket shopping cart to a skate board trying to get across town.

There was a sketch with Van Dyke convincingly playing the Great Ludwig, a 97-year-old magician, tottering through a series of magic mishaps. This was pretty funny but may have run a little too long.

After a ballad-type song, he turned to some interesting pantomime. Then came the jazz version of Bach. Highlights of the hour were a reprise of a record act with his first show business partner, Phil Eriksen, and a final, elaborate production number derived from "Mary Poppins."

Van Dyke's pantomime is not as clean and legible as that of Red Skelton. His dancing is not as incredibly light-footed as that of Danny Kaye. His comedy lines are funnier, as he has observed, when they are written by Carl Reiner. But the fact that he can do so many different things so well makes him an interesting and impressive performer.

It will take the rest of the week to get all the network schedules back on their tracks after the 13-day AFTRA strike. Some of the daytime shows will continue with replacements and repeats until new shows can be taped. The familiar faces were back Tuesday night on the prime-time news and evening programs.

Recommended tonight: "The Danny Thomas Show," NBC, 9-10 EST, special built around an old-fashioned block party.

Bars Reopening One of Powell's Contempt Cases

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Court of Appeals has refused to reopen one of three civil contempt cases involving Adam Clayton Powell because, in part, the Harlem Congressman had paid a judgment stemming from the charge.

The state's highest court took that position Tuesday on a motion by Powell, who sought permission to appeal lower court decisions that held him in contempt for failure to appear in court last Dec. 9. The session was called for an examination of his financial status.

The court said it refused to reopen the case because it was a moot point whether the Democrat did or did not appear in court. In addition, the court noted that Powell has paid the $290 judgment in the case.

Powell, who won re-election Tuesday to the congressional seat denied him in January, also faces a charge of criminal contempt.

All of Powell's legal troubles, which have prevented him from returning to New York State, stem from a libel suit brought by Mrs. Esther James of Harlem. Powell called the widow a "bag woman" during a television broadcast in 1960. A bag woman or man is a collector of graft for corrupt police.

Switzerland's most famous peak, the Matterhorn, was first climbed in 1865.

Heart Institute

Dr. Kausel, AMC, Addresses Second Nurse Session

The second session of the fourth annual Heart Institute of the Mid-Hudson Heart Association was held April 7 at Benedictine Hospital. This Institute was primarily for school nurse-teachers and public health nurses, and was attended by over 100 nurses in the area.

Mrs. Helen Hildebrandt, R.N., chairman, Committee on Programs for Nurses, and Sister Mary Charles, co-administrator of Benedictine Hospital, welcomed the speakers and guests.

The morning session was devoted to cardiac surgery stressing recognition, diagnosis, surgical treatment and rehabilitation to a normal life. Many types of heart defects in children were described and shown how the school nurse-teachers and public health nurses may aid the family of a candidate for heart surgery.

Dr. Reda Shaher, pediatric cardiologist at the Albany Medical College, spoke on Cardiac Anomalies Found in Infants and Children. He reviewed the anatomy of these anomalies and the medical and surgical treatment of these abnormalities.

Using this information as a basis, the next lecture was on Cardiac Surgery in the School Age Child. Dr. Harvey Kausel, associate professor of Thoracic Surgery at Albany Medical Center Hospital, discussed the types of surgical therapy used to correct these defects. He also told of follow-up and home care of the child after undergoing open heart surgery.

Rehabilitation of the patient after surgery is also an important part of total care of the cardiac patient. Miss Catherine Grace, supervisor of the division of Vocational Rehabilitation of the New York State Department of Education, Poughkeepsie, told of the services offered patients. These are in the areas of vocational training, medical evaluation and family counseling. Following this Dr. Vernon Link, Commissioner of the Ulster County Department of Health, acquainted the nurses with the State Medical Rehabilitation Program and the relationship to the New York State Medic-Aid Program.

HEART INSTITUTE FOR NURSES — Large groups attended the two-day Institute sponsored last week by the Mid-Hudson Heart Association, Inc., which serves Ulster, Greene and Columbia Counties. The sessions were held at Benedictine Hospital and were featured with programs on the subjects, Coronary Care Units; eties that a patient can be prey to following a heart attack. It also showed the effect this may have on a family. Following this a panel discussion took place on the treatment of anxieties. This presentation showed the need for a team approach to helping the patient and his family during this difficult period. The panel participants were Dr. John A. Olivet, medical director of Benedictine Hospital; Murray Barton, chief of Social Work, Veteran's Administration Hospital, Albany; Dr. Alice E. Rost, psychiatrist, Albany, and Miss Helen Jones, R.N., consultant Public Health Nurse, State of New York Department of Health. Mrs. Hildebrandt, speaking for the Heart Association, extended appreciation to the hospital's administrators and staff for providing such excellent facilities and for their outstanding cooperation and to all the nurses who did such a magnificent job in planning this Institute. She announced that it was the most successful Heart Institute for Nurses to be held in this area. Nurses attending came from the following counties: Montgomery, Rensselaer, Albany, Greene, Columbia, Ulster, Dutchess, Orange, Delaware and the State of Connecticut. This Institute program was part of the Mid-Hudson Heart Association's professional education program. The Institute was made possible through the annual Heart Fund campaign.

Nose-Blowing at the Table

Dear Mrs. Post: We had a distinguished guest at the dinner table one evening and at one point during the dinner he turned his head and blew his nose, and I mean really blew it. I maintain if a good healthy blow is necessary, a person should leave the table. My husband says as long as you turn your head it is permissible. I think it's a disgusting habit and during a meal can be nauseating.—Eve K.

Dear Mrs. K.: I agree with you a hundred percent. Prolonged nose-blowing is thoroughly objectionable, especially at the table. If a light blow or a delicate wipe won't suffice until the meal is over, one should excuse oneself and go to another room to take care of the situation.

Infirmiry Head Nurse Speaks to Methodist Woman's Group Here

Mrs. Dorothy Gunzelmann, head nurse at the Ulster County Infirmiry, Flatbush Avenue, was guest speaker at the Willt Evening Circle of the St. James Methodist Church Woman's Society of Christian Service on April 5 when a dinner party was held at the home of Mrs. Robert Wemple, Hurley.

Mrs. Gunzelmann, who was introduced to the group by Mrs. William Willt, chairman of the Evening Circle, presented an informative talk about the Infirmiry, an explanation of the programs in use, and the needs of the Infirmiry. She praised various churches, local civic groups and individuals who do a great deal to help "give a family feeling" to the Infirmiry. Particular interest was shown in the birthday program where each patient is given a cake and gift on his birthday.

In citing the needs of the Infirmiry, Mrs. Gunzelmann said more volunteers are needed for transporting patients to and from occupational and physical therapy departments within the building; bedside visitors; assistance with feeding patients, writing letters and showing slides or home movies. She also stated that more nurses are needed as well as volunteers who will take patients riding. Donations of cotton dresses are always welcome, the head nurse said.

The Doctor Says

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprises Assn.
Causes Are Essential Segments of Diagnoses

Man: times I'm sure my answers to queries disappoint the questioner because of a misunderstanding about what constitutes a diagnosis. When, for example, I read, "My doctor says I have gastritis. What causes it and what is the best treatment?" I am tempted to reply that the word gastritis is not a diagnosis and the cause is an essential part of the diagnosis. Is it an alcoholic gastritis, a gastritis due to an infection (infection with what organism?), or a gastritis caused by aspirin, other drugs or to chemical poisons? The treatment usually depends on an accurate knowledge of the cause.

What used to be diagnosed as gripe, a diagnosis now rarely used, could be only acute upper respiratory infection. Even to call it influenza no longer suffices for those who hope to forestall an epidemic by using vaccine. The vaccine must confer an immunity against the virus strain (A, B, C or Asian) that predominates in a given epidemic. Sometimes an effective vaccine that combines two or more strains can be made, but there are limits beyond which such a procedure will fail.

A classic example of a non-diagnosis was the answer a student doctor gave to a patient who had uncontrolled vomiting: "Madame, you have a case of acute emesis." Emesis is a Greek word that means vomiting, nothing more. The days when such a diagnosis will satisfy a patient are, I hope, gone forever.

Q—What is Librium? Could a person who is taking phenobarbital for convulsive seizures also take this drug? Would there be any side effects?

A—Chlordiazepoxide (Librium) is a tranquilizer. It can be given with phenobarbital. The side effects of Librium, when given in too large a dosage, include drowsiness, fainting, nausea, headache and skin rash. Anyone who is taking this drug should have periodic blood counts.

Health for All

In the good old days the weather announcer used to take his chances with a prediction of rain or snow, sleet or hail. Nowadays he goes in for tongue-twisting percentages of precipitation probability. Either way it's just as wet when it comes down.

The precipitation that descends from on high doesn't hold many terrors. But there's another kind that most of us encounter at our peril. It's the kind of precipitation that happens in the season of spring colds when everybody and his father-in-law is coughing and sneezing in a vast contagious chorus.

The fallout that comes with an uncovered cough or sneeze is the kind of sudden spring shower that can literally "bug" you. Literally? Yes, because it's apt to be loaded with a choice selection of respiratory disease viruses or germs, known or unknown, that are looking for a nice human host.

Spring sneezes and bronchial barks, in other words, can be effective spreaders of illness. A cold in itself may not be very serious, but it could develop into something highly unpleasant in terms of time lost, expense, and general misery.

Two simple rules apply to cough-and-sneeze precipitation: if you're on the dispatching end, cover up fast. If you're in the target group—duck.

There's a third rule, too. If a cold develops into a stubborn cough that refuses to go away, better see your doctor. A chronic cough can be a tipoff to a really serious disease.

For more information about colds, coughs and sneezes, your Christmas Seal association offers a free booklet, "Common Cold, The Facts."

The Dutch Reformed Church Woodstock, N.Y.

1967 Building Program

MAJOR ADDITION PLANNED — Woodstock Dutch Reformed Church, easily the most imposing and beautiful structure on the town's village green, will boast a new addition within short months. The addition, to the side and rear of the present building, is colonial in conception and was drawn by Albert E. Milliken, Kingston architect. This past Sunday, members of the congregation voted to proceed with funding the structure as called for in the architect's plans. The new addition, which will be financed over a three-year period and should be ready for occupancy some time this summer, will include meeting rooms, 12 class rooms, administrative quarters and minister's private office. Other plans call for a new choir loft high in the rear of the present church and improved exit facilities for the entire building.

Abel Street Gets Spring Cleaning From Local Teens

It has been said that God helps those who help themselves. The young residents of the Downtown Urban Renewal Area have apparently taken this advice to heart and are actively involved in cleaning up the debris-strewn section.

Six teenage boys, with the help of Kingston Human Relations Commission Director Evan J. Davis volunteered to clean up the debris at 24 Abel Street last Saturday. The owner is Charles Pavlidis.

The boys include Edward, Jesse and Ronald Ector, Steven Reddick, Matthew Meekes and Tony Lindsay. They were assisted by Edward Parker, a member of the Human Relations Commission and a teacher at the Highland State Training School for Boys.

Kingston Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan was also on hand at the cleanup last Saturday. The boys worked free of charge but thanks to the efforts of Harold N. Larsen of the Welfare Department who took up a collection from department employees, and Mayor Garraghan's secretary, Mrs. June Diamond, who collected among city employees, plus a generous contribution from the mayor, the boys were given a lunch and two dollars each.

The Department of Public Works supplied the various tools used in the cleanup while the Bull Market, Inc. donated cartons for the refuse. An estimated two tons of refuse was picked up by the Department of Public Works.

Davis said that donations will be received through him in care of the Human Relations Commission, municipal auditorium. He also urged any interested citizens who would like to help to assemble with their own rakes at 24 Abel Street Saturday morning beginning at 9 o'clock.

Work will begin immediately on the competitive, parallel development contract. Hercules will perform the work at Allegheny Ballistics Laboratory, near Cumberland, Md.; utilizing the composite solid propellant facility recently constructed there. Hercules will use its highly advanced composite solid propellant, Hercolpel, on the project. The development of Hercolpel was announced by the company last year after six years of work by company scientists.

Blood. Any time. Any amount you need. When you need it. And, at no cost. And, since the blood is collected by your local hospitals, it stays right in your community. That's the way it ought to be, and that's the way it is for members of the Blue Cross Blood Program.

Now, you and your family can get unlimited amounts of blood. Whether it's the usual three or four pints necessary for a transfusion, or as much as twenty to thirty for major surgery. It's there. And at no cost to you.

It's the newest Blue Cross benefit developed in cooperation with the Community Blood Council of Greater New York and its cooperating agencies. No other health plan has anything like it.

Here's how it works:

A small percentage of your company, union, or any Blue Cross group donates blood through the Blue Cross Blood Program. This automatically establishes coverage for all members and their families. Whitman Electric Tops DeMicco's 93-89, for KBT Title

Brown Hits 51 For Champions

By CHARLES J. TIANO
(Freeman Sports Editor)

Like his television counterpart, Charlie Brown is simply devastating.

The speedy Teaneck, N. J., basketballer has the speed of a gazelle, more moves than an Egyptian belly dancer and the stamina of a steeplechaser. And he's only about 5-7 and 140 pounds.

He put all the elements together Tuesday night in a spectacular 51 point barrage to pace Whitman's Electric to 93-89 victory over DeMicco Motors for the Kingston Basketball Tournament championship.

Left handed all the way, Brown ripped the DeMicco defenses with a bewildering variety of shots in one of the finest individual performances in the 14-year history of the KBT.

The tournament's judges committee unanimously acclaimed Brown the Most Valuable Player and named him to the All-Star team along with Joe Jackson, Stewart AFB; Brad Meyer and Joe Uhl of DeMicco Motors; and Bob Bondar, Whitman veteran who was one of the real surprises of the tournament.

Joe Uhl Benched
With jumpin' Joe Uhl, DeMicco's big gun mysteriously chained to the bench for long spells, it was a touch and go ball game until 4:50 of the 4th period.

At this point, Bondar broke a 79-79 tie and Brown took it out of the wood with a brilliant hook shot and three fouls. John Stevens added a foul to run the score to 87-79 before Ron Chando halted the rout with a deuce at 2:20. Brown, with 21 deuces to his credit, closed out the game with four foul shots.

Don't let the final score fool you. With the electrifying Charlie Brown, Bondar, and Wayne Ranich in command, (and Uhl only lackluster for DeMicco's), the Whitman's superiority was never in doubt in the crucial stages of the contest.

Uhl finished with 21 points for DeMicco's. Bob Bondar hit 19 for Whitman's and Frank Roselli potted 15 for DeMicco's.

Tense at Start
Obviously tight and tense at the start, Brown missed several shots, but once he found the range he was simply devastating. A superb dribbler, he faked defenders out of their shoes, streaked up the left side of the court (always the left side) and unloaded shots never seen before at the hallowed auditorium.

Coch Jim Massa, who fashioned the Cinderella team of 1967, was obviously pleased. "I'm very happy about our win," he said, "Charlie has promised to come back next year." That gives the opponents a year in which to shore up their defenses against the New Jersey shooting wizard. It is doubtful if they can do it.

Stewart Wins Consi
The battle for this place was anti-climactic with most of Donnie Van's regulars missing because of Kingston High's baseball practices.

Led by Jackson's 35 points, the Stewart AFB Panthers routed the revised version of Donnie's, 107-63, to win consolation honors. Bryant of AFB and Bruce Gilligan meshed 27 points each.

Wes Predicts 10-Game Hike For the Mets

BY ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

"One loss doesn't make a season. Naturally, I'm disappointed. We wanted to give our wonderful fans their first opening day victory, but we didn't play our best."

The speaker was Wes Westrum, who began his second full season as manager of the New York Mets yesterday and suffered through a 6-3 setback at the hands of the Pittsburgh Pirates, the pre-season favorites to win the National League pennant race.

While more than 31,000 eskimos sat through temperature just a little above freezing, the Mets took a 3-1 lead at Shea Stadium and looked like winners, especially the way ex-Buc Don Cardwell was throwing.

Then, the floodgates opened and Cardwell departed, an impressive loser but a loser nevertheless. Bud Harrelson's error at shortstop permitted the tying runs to cross the dish in the sixth.

In the ninth, former Met Jesse Gonder delivered the coup de grace, a booming double off the wall in right center. It scored the tie breaking run, sent Cardwell to the showers and earned big Bob Veale a victory. The hard throwing lefty wasn't at his best, but aside from catcher Jerry Grote's two-run homer in the fourth, he was tough, particularly with runners on the base paths.

Westrum, in a post game interview with this reporter, said this year's Mets are improved by as much as 10 games over the 1966 squad, which became the first Met team in history to escape the cellar. They finished ninth and won 66 games.

Likes Pitching Staff
"Cardwell, Jack Fisher and Bob Shaw give us three solid starting pitchers. Young Tom Seaver, who goes in the Thursday game, Ralph Terry and Chuck Estrada will be helpful during the year. You saw Cardwell pitch the opener. He'll win quite a few games if he keeps throwing the ball that hard," the Met manager said.

Though his club made five errors, two of them by the usually dependable Cleon Jones, Westrum feels the defense is vastly improved. He tabs Don Bosch a good one in center and said the situation around second is in capable hands. Jerry Buchek is the second baseman and Harrelson starts at shortstop.

"We're a little thin in the bullpen and have no veteran left hander but we hope that Don Shaw and Ron Taylor will give us the relief pitching we will need during an entire season," Westrum said.

He's happy over the way slugger Ron Swoboda has been playing first and will alternate the crowd pleaser with Ed Kranepool. "That gives us good power on both sides of the plate at that position," the manager added.

Though the opening day setback was their sixth in as many seasons, Westrum wasn't ready to concede a thing to the Pirates. "They have good power, their double play combination is the best in baseball but their pitching is still questionable. Anybody can win the pennant and you can be sure our club will have a lot to say about who does."

Praises Met Fans
What about the 31,000 fans in attendance? "The Met fans are the greatest in the country. It wasn't a good day for baseball but they came. The players noticed it and they tried their best to put a victory away. However, it's a long season and we hope to win quite a few before it's over," said the Met skipper.

The former Giant catcher and Casey Stengel's successor has to get an award for optimism. Though the Met's won't challenge for the title, they figure to win several games on hustle alone. That's the only way West knew how to play and it's rubbed

A's Click With White Shoes

Adcock Is Upset But Kaycees Win

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The fashionable Kansas City A's have countered the miniskirt rebellion with a new style of their own, and it was enough to touch off another Charles O. Finley colorful controversy.

The American League doormats of the past have foreseen their former drab existence and Tuesday night stepped into first place wearing white shoes that left the Cleveland Indians kicking.

The A's opened their 1967 season by beating the Indians 4-3 on Fred Whitfield's error with the bases loaded in the seventh inning in Kansas City, and joined Baltimore, California and New York in first place.

The Orioles, looking the same as they did as world champions last season, clubbed Minnesota 6-3 and the Angels dropped Detroit 4-2 to grab their share. The Yankees beat Washington 8-0 Monday.

The only other AL game, the Chicago White Sox at Boston, was postponed because of cold weather.

In the National League, Pittsburgh stopped the New York Mets 6-3, the Chicago Cubs overcame Philadelphia 4-2. Houston belted Atlanta 6-1 and St. Louis blanked San Francisco 6-0. Cincinnati beat Los Angeles 6-1 Monday and the teams were not scheduled Tuesday.

Fort Knox Gold
The A's unveiled their fashion show in the first inning when they took the field. Their wedding gown white, Fort Knox gold and sea-foam green uniforms of last season were a notch brighter, but the main addition was the rare albino kangaroo white shoes with kelly-green laces.

The uniforms, of course, were the idea of Kansas City owner Finley, who in past years stirred the league with his penchant for right field, his mule mascot and his sheep grazing area beyond the outfield.

Joe Adcock, making his debut as Cleveland manager, did not take kindly to the white shoe idea, not that he isn't fashion-minded. Adcock claimed the white shoes worn by Kansas City pitcher Jim Nash distracted his hitters and protested the game after the first pitch. "I want to get this settled right away," Adcock said.

Cronin Consents
However, American League President Joe Cronin and Cal Hubbard, supervisor of umpires, already had given the A's permission to start the season with their classy and colorful footwear.

"White shoes aren't going to bother a hitter," said A's Manager Alvin Dark. "A pitcher has both feet on the ground when he releases the ball. A hitter is going to be following the ball, not the shoes."

Whether or not the shoes helped, Nash stopped the Indians on five hits and three runs for seven innings before leaving for pinch hitter Ramon Webster with the bases loaded on two walks and a wild pitch third strike that put Joe Rudi on base.

With two out, Webster grounded to short, but first baseman Whitfield dropped the throw and the A's had their victory.

The Orioles won without controversy in Baltimore as they jumped on 25-game winner Jim Kat of the Twins for four first-inning runs. It was the same old story of 1966 as Frank Robinson singled home one run and Brooks Robinson homered for two more.

Oriole Relievers Click
Another carry-over act from 1966, relievers Moe Drabowsky and Stu Miller, saved the triumph by blanking the Twins the last 4-1-3 innings after starter Dave McNally faltered.

George Brunet, a budding Tiger killer, turned back Detroit with a three-hitter in Anaheim as the California Angels opened with a 4-2 victory. The 31-year-old left-hander, beating the Tigers for the sixth straight time, had them blanked until the ninth when Gates Brown homered with a man on.

Don Mincher and Rick Reichardt supplied the punch for the Angels as Reichardt, recovered from a kidney ailment that sidelined him the last part of 1966, doubled home one run and singled before Mincher homered in a three-run fourth inning off loser Dennis McLain, a 20-game winner last year.

Only 17,136 Back As Big A Reopens

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — It almost seemed as if the bettors had gotten out of the habit of going to the races.

Just 17,136 turned out Tuesday to welcome the thoroughbreds back to Aqueduct after the end of a boycott by members of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association that had closed the track for five consecutive racing days.

The hardy group wagered a total of $1,732,123 on the nine-race card. This compared to the crowd of 26,751 and a mutual handle of $2,830,648 a week ago Tuesday, the last day of racing before the horsemen's boycott for higher purses.

It was a cold and windy day and the usual excitement of an opening day was missing.

Executives of the New York Racing Association were not dismayed, however.

"It's amazing we got this many," said Edward T. Dickinson, president of the NYRA.

"With no entries in the morning papers, there was probably a lot of uncertainty about what kind of a program we'd be able to put together."

Dickinson referred to the late hour Monday night that members of the HBPA voted to end their boycott and enter their horses. The NYRA agreed to increase minimum purses from $3,500 to $4,000 and the state promised to reduce its take next year from 10 per cent to 9 1/2 per cent.

The failure of the legislature to do that this year led the horsemen and led to the boycott.

The 76ers trailed 53-37 after five minutes of the second quarter. That is where Hannum felt the game turned around.

End of Trail
For Celtics

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — It may sound strange for a coach whose team scored 140 points to say a game was won with defense.

But that was just what Coach Alex Hannum said Tuesday night after his Philadelphia 76ers buried the Boston Celtics 140-116 to win the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division final playoff series.

"The turning point," said Hannum, "was our over-all defense from the middle of the second period to the end."

The 76ers, who beat the Celtics 4-1 in the best-of-7 competition, earned the right to meet the winner of the current Western Division final between San Francisco and St. Louis.

San Francisco, leading 3-2, meets the Hawks in St. Louis tonight.

The 76ers trailed 53-37 after five minutes of the second quarter. That is where Hannum felt the game turned around.

From that point to the end of the first half, Philadelphia outscored the Celtics 28-17 and sliced the margin to 70-64 at halftime.

Jones Comes Alive

Then, at the start of the third period, Wally Jones came alive to hit on eight of nine shots and vault the 76ers into their first lead.

"This was the turning point offensively," said Hannum, who in 1957-58 coached St. Louis to an NBA title victory over Boston. It was the last time the Celtics were to lose the crown for eight years.

Until Tuesday night, they had won 10 straight Eastern final playoff titles.

The 76ers moved ahead to stay with 3:18 remaining in the third period on a driving layup by Chet Walker. This made it 95-93.

The 76ers then turned the game into a rout as the Celtics went 6:34 without a field goal. They out-scored Boston 40-22 in the clutch final period.

Hal Greer scored 32 points, Walker 26 and Jones 23, but in the final analysis it was the 7-foot-11 Wilt Chamberlain who was the difference.

Chamberlain Excels

Chamberlain scored 29 points, grabbed 36 rebounds, handed out 13 assists and blocked seven Boston field goal attempts.

Standing in the 76ers' dressing room, champagne dripping from his head to his toes, Chamberlain grinned, shook his head, and said, "It's been a long time, a long time. It's great."

The Celtics took the end of their championship era in style. They gave all the credit to the winner.

Coach Bill Russell said the 76ers "were the better team in this series."

The Celtics' losing effort was topped by John Havlicek with 38 points.

MIKE FERRARO'S TRANSFER TO SYRACUSE isn't fatal to the local lad's future residency at third base in Yankee Stadium. He remains on the Yankees' 40-man roster and could be back long before the 1967 season is over. There is nothing in the records of Dick Howser or Charlie Smith that would indicate they'll lead the Yankees out of the American League wilderness. Country Squires league at Woodstock Lanes has clarified its position with respect to the cancelling out of Jerry Wolven's 289-690 scores. League officials said they figured Wolven was just rolling to fill a blind score when he transferred (without permission) from WGB Oil Clarifiers to Pete's Chevrons. When claim was made for recognition, the league managers held a meeting and voted to abide by the ABC ruling on transfers. This requires a two-thirds vote of the captains. Since Wolven had never received permission to transfer, his scores were invalidated. The league had no alternative and their stand was supported by the rule. A post-mortem: Wolven has since been granted permission to transfer from WGB to Pete's.

COMMON COUNCIL ACTION OF THE NEW softball complex is a bright spot in an otherwise drab situation in the city. Gone are St. Mary's Field, Athletic Field, Hasbrouck Park and other spots. The new field and its arc lights should prove a boon for softball and make it the go-go sport of the 1967 summer season. More vandalism than you suspect in a survey of Little League problems in the area. Much of it is unreported. The New York City General of the National Professional Soccer League announced that it has set up a speakers bureau for engagements in the greater New York area. One thing that puzzles us: how are the TV stations going to work in the commercials into the soccer telecast, when the rules of the game call for two continuous 45-minute periods, with a five-minute halftime break. How? They'll stop the game, of course. They now stop football, basketball and baseball. So what makes soccer so sacrosanct?

WHAT ARE THE ODDS ON CASSIUS CLAY serving an Army hitch? Jack O'Brian, the teetotal columnist said it first, Muhammad will not report for induction. He'll submit to arrest, then there will be appeals, appeals. Meantime, Ali Baby will keep on fighting and eventually become the big martyr for the Black Muslims. What would cause a man in his right mind to spend five or six dollars to see the closed circuit showing of the Clay-Patterson "thing" in Las Vegas. But congratulations to Gov. Paul LaSalle for the courage to save the American sports public from another disgraceful exhibition. I'd rather pay $5 to see Bruno Sammartino rattle for the "world's championship". At least, I'd know it was a fake for the "world's championship". Maybe you'd rather forget the snows, but Whiteface Mountain in the Adirondacks reports that a brand new complex of ski trails when completed late in 1967 will give Whiteface the highest elevation in the east. The vertical drop will be 3,112 feet.

NEA SYNDICATE which services The Freeman is happy about the recent performance of Billy Welu, its "special bowling instructor" this past winter. Welu, who is Chris Schenkel's color man on the ABC telecasts, rolled a 300 game and a record smashing 1097 four-game block, wiping out Don Carter's world mark by 13 pins. He wrapped games of 269, 259 and 269 around the 12 straight strikes, following his own instructions, of course. This all happened in the $100,000 BPA Tournament of Champions at Akron, Ohio. Buster Ferraro tabs young Jim Davide as the next pocket billiard great in the area. After Buster lays down the mantle, to be sure. Hal Reniff, the Yankee reliever, could never get excited about the Orioles beating the Dodgers in four straight in the 1966 World Series. "What's about that?" said Reniff. "We lost five straight to them last season."

IF YOU CAN BELIEVE THAT Damon would leave Pythias, Romeo would quit Juliet, or Freeman leave Hickey, you might be tempted to believe the rumors coming out of Rosendale. Bull Curran, Mr. Ski Jumping, is quitting the Rosendale Nordic Ski Club? Oyvey!

That Booming Triple Mathews' Top Thrill

By RON RAPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer

In his many years with the Boston - Milwaukee - Atlanta Braves, Eddie Mathews used to specialize in great opening day performances. But it is his debut in a Houston uniform that the slugging first baseman may remember the longest.

A mighty triple against the center field wall in the seventh inning Tuesday night gave Mathews' new club a 1-1 tie against his old one and soon afterwards the Astros had a 6-1 opening day victory over the Braves.

"Are you kidding," Mathews said later when asked if he'd particularly enjoyed playing a decisive part in beating his ex-teammates. "I'm playing the team I was with for 15 years."

When the Braves traded Mathews on Dec. 31, 1966, the thing that rankled him most was that the club told the press before it told him.

"I'll remember this opener," Mathews said. "I've had some good opening days. I hit a couple of home runs two or three times in the past in the opener, but I'll settle for this one."

In other National League games Tuesday, all season openers, Pittsburgh beat New York 6-3, Chicago took Philadelphia 4-2 and St. Louis blanked San Francisco 6-0. Cincinnati and Los Angeles had an open date.

The big blow in the Astros' six-run inning was Aaron Pointer's two-run double. Before the inning Denny Lemaster was pitching a one-hitter, but when he left after tiring, the roof of the Astrodome fell in on the Braves.

A double steal and a pop single by Lee Thomas accounted for two runs in the sixth inning that gave Chicago its triumph. Ferguson Jenkins went the distance for the Cubs, giving up six hits, while Jim Bunning took the loss for Philadelphia.

Bob Gibson struck out the first five men he faced, tying a National League record, and fanned 13 Giants over-all. Lou Brock's three-run homer was the big blast for the Cards, who pounded Juan Marichal for 14 hits, the most he has even given up in one game.

Elston Ends Training

Seaman Recruit Anthony W. Elston, 20, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace J. Elston of Route 1, Stone Ridge, has been graduated from nine weeks of Navy basic training at the Naval Training Center at Great Lakes, Ill.

Same Old Maury Wills In Pittsburg Debut

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — It was so cold at Shea Stadium on opening day that Maury Wills only stole one base.

The dapper little ex-Dodger, playing his first game for the Pittsburgh Pirates, contributed a pair of a singles an RBI and a stolen base in Tuesday's 6-3 victory over the New York Mets on a day more suited to ice skating than baseball.

Maury ran his stolen-base total to 10 in 10 games, including the exhibition season, when he hot footed it to second ahead of Jerry Grote's peg in the ninth. ("You don't think they're going to give me the other nine, do you," said Wills in the clubhouse.)

Did Maury think anybody was capable of topping his record of 104 in 1962?

"Yes, my son," said Maury facetiously. Then he got serious. "I don't think my right knee would stand up long enough for me to break the record. If I went at the pace I went in 1962 I would be all shot in July."

Wills runs on his own with the Pirates, just as he did at Los Angeles under Walter Alston. Harry Walker, his Pittsburgh manager, lets him pick his spots.

"I'm on my own unless I prove to Harry that I can't do the job or am abusing the privilege," he said. "Some people say I won't need to run so much with all the hitting the Pirates have. I don't think they really believe it."

Not Afraid to Try

"I won't be hesitant to try."

The only difference will be I've got to be sure. I just have to make it. I don't expect to get 100 per cent. But I did get 30 out of 31 one year."

Wills, making a new career for himself as a third baseman because the Pirates have a star shortstop in Gene Alley, admits he isn't quite as fast as he used to be.

"I like to think that what I have lost in actual speed I have gained in learning more about the pitchers," he said.

Wills was only a small factor in the Pirates' opening victory. Actually five errors, including two by right fielder Cleon Jones, contributed to the Mets' problems more than anything the Pirates did. It was the sixth straight year the Mets have lost the opener. They never have won their first game.

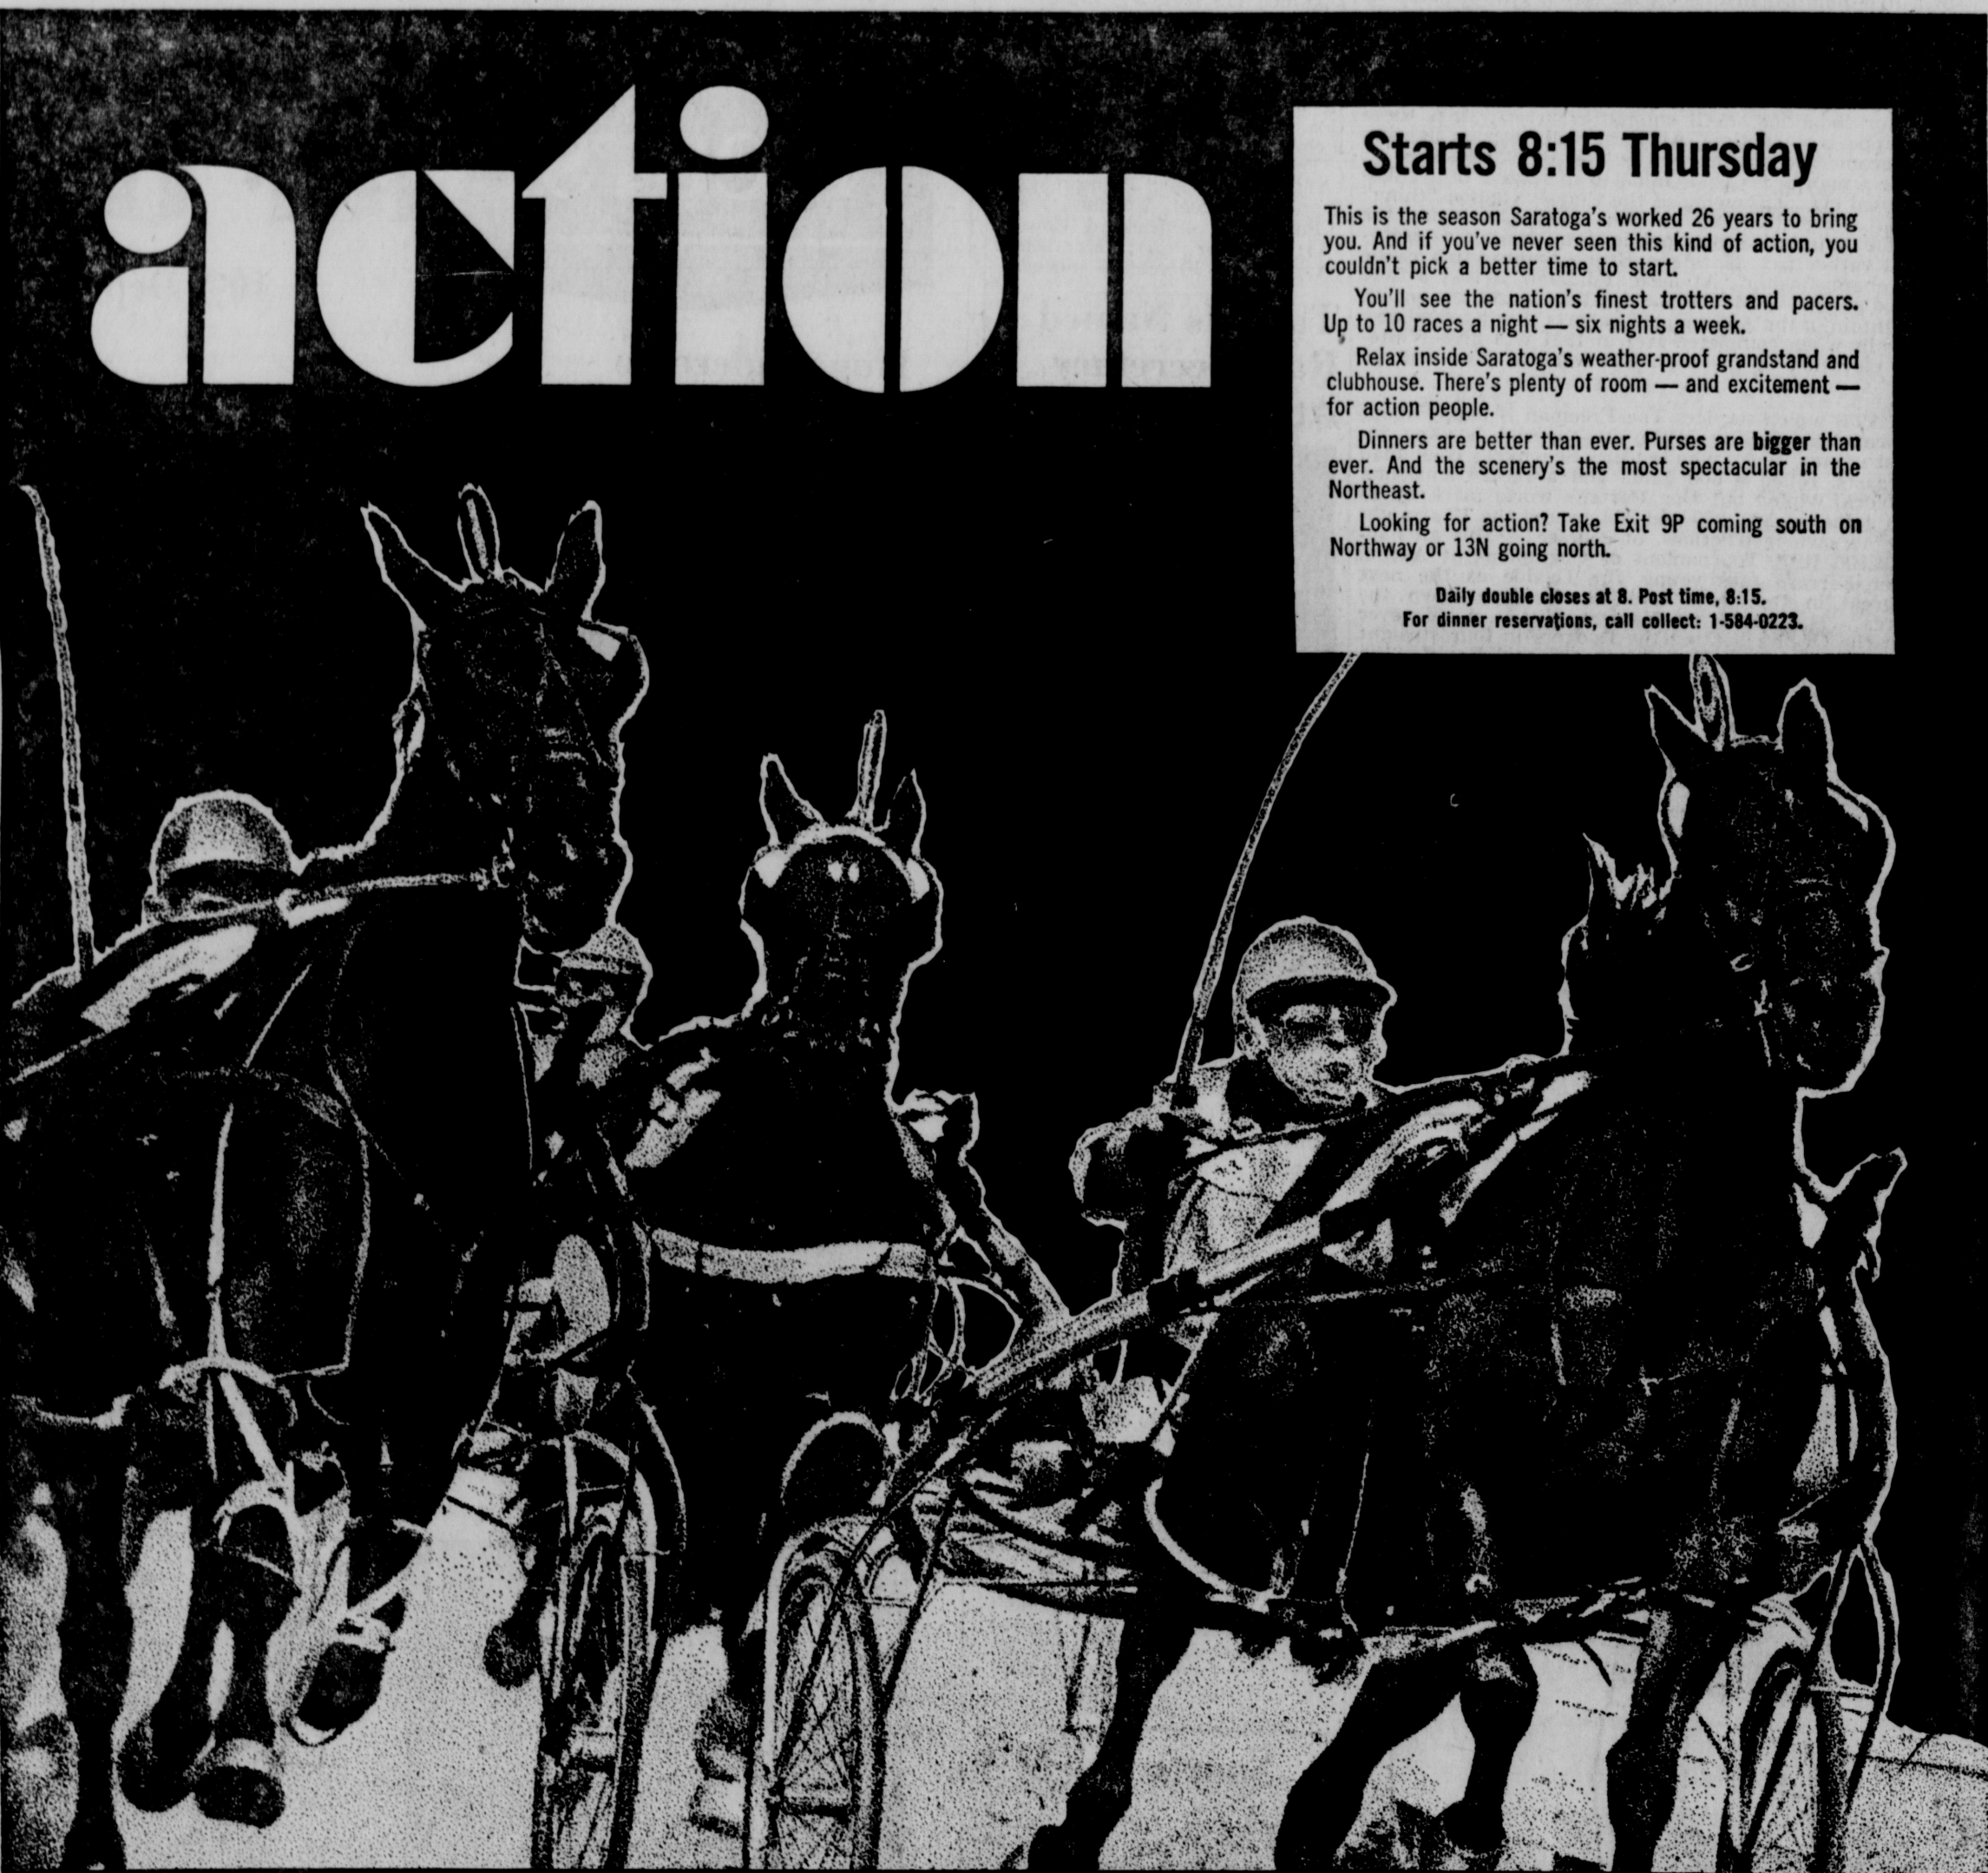

Cold winds swept across the stadium and the temperature was only 45 at game time. The wind raised havoc with fly balls and sent many of the 31,510 fans home early.

House Approves Overhauling of Copyright Law

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has overwhelmingly approved the first general overhaul of the nation's complex copyright laws since 1909.

Compromise agreements eliminating a section relating to CATV — systems and revising a provision covering juke boxes paved the way toward the 379-29 roll-call vote passing the bill Tuesday and sending it to the Senate.

Began Last Month
Hearings began last month before a Senate Judiciary subcommittee. Final action on the bill is expected later this year.

The Senate panel heard testimony from Julie London demonstrating Tuesday her contention that the new copyright law should provide long term record royalties for performers as well as composers.

The vehicle for Miss London's demonstration of some styling was the theme song of television's Mickey Mouse Club. She played a recording of that marching song for children, then one of her own which transformed the song into a sad ballad.

Peace Group Meets At New Paltz Friday

The Ulster County Peace Committee will meet Friday 8 p. m. at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, New Paltz, to hear a special guest speaker.

Father Thomas Hayes, executive director of the Episcopal Peace Fellowship, with headquarters in New York City, will be the featured speaker. He will be introduced by the Rev. Vernon Douglas of Kingston. Father Hayes has been coordinator of churches, nation-wide, in the Mobilization to End the War program which will end April 15 with hundreds of thousands of Americans across the nation marching as a protest to the war in Vietnam.

Members of peace groups from area colleges together with members of Dutchess and Sullivan peace groups will attend the New Paltz meeting.

The senators said they were impressed.

In other Capitol Hill action, the House Judiciary Committee okayed a bill that could force reapportionment in many states by 1972. The measure would limit deviations in size of congressional districts to 30 per cent in 1968 and to 10 per cent in 1972.

Extends Time

The House-passed copyright bill extends coverage time for authors, playwrights, composers and lyricists and takes into account technological advances since 1909. For example, it provides copyright coverage for material fed into computers and stored there.

The existing law permits a maximum coverage of 56 years. The new bill extends this to a period covering the author's lifetime plus 50 years, starting in 1969. Copyrights now in existence would be extended to a maximum 75 years.

The revised juke box provision, agreed to in weekend negotiations between the juke box operators and the performing rights societies which represent composers and lyricists, requires each operator to pay an $8 licensing fee per year on each box.

$4 Million in Pot

The $4 million expected to come from the nation's estimated 500,000 juke boxes annually would be collected by the Register of Copyrights and split up by performing rights societies.

By dropping the section on CATV, which set up varying degrees of liability for different types of cable systems, the House left the cable television industry subject to a New York federal court ruling that all CATV operators are liable under copyright laws.

CATV operators hope to overturn that decision on appeal. If it is sustained by the Supreme Court, the House may be asked to take another look at the situation.

In a surprise freak of the weather Monday, following the summer like weather, the March wind caused the water of the Ashokan reservoir to sink the vast area of ice. In the history of the valley since the inundation by Ashokan Reservoir waters there have been similar occurrences. Presently the west basin is overflowing at the dividing weir. SAUGERTIES NEWS

Many Students Entered Cleanup Poster Contest

More than 100 entries were received in the poster contest sponsored by the Public Affairs Department of the Woman's Club of Saugerties. Thoughtful efforts put forth by students of the seventh, eighth and ninth grades were evident, and the posters were cleverly worded and skillfully drawn, a club spokesman said.

Judges for the contest, Mrs. Robert Blanchard and Mrs. John Janeczek of the Public Affairs Department, and Mrs. Edward Hulme and Mrs. William Hays, of the Art Department, were faced with a difficult task in choosing four winners from so many ingeniously produced posters. The Woman's Club donated an additional sum of money so that honorable mention awards could be made to 10 other deserving winners.

After a great deal of thoughtful consideration the following were chosen: first prize of $10 was awarded to Janice Welton of Grade Seven — Junior High; second prize of eight dollars to Linda Leimgruber of grade eight — Junior High; third prize of five dollars to Amy Bragg of grade seven — Junior High; and fourth prize of five dollars to Linda Sinnott of Grade Seven — St. Mary School.

Honorable mention awards went to Linda Buck, Donna Gardner and Anne Rea—all of grade seven, and to Nancy Harkins, Diana Tanski, Marilyn Buono, and Dennis O'Hearn, all of St. Mary School's eighth grade, and to Mary Lou Leah, Linda Rittie and Robert Gallenz, all of grade seven of the Junior High School.

To Be Displayed

Winning posters and all others entered in the contest will be displayed in local banks and business establishments throughout the village. The message conveyed by these posters is one that establishes the concern and interest felt by the students, as well as their parents and teachers, for keeping the village of Saugerties clean and tidy. It is hoped that this same awareness can be transmitted to all residents of Saugerties in a concerted effort to make the village "sparkle."

Mrs. Joseph Sullivan, chairman of the Public Affairs Department, expressed her appreciation to Sister Mary Leo, principal of St. Mary of the Snow School, and to Robert Moser, principal of Saugerties Junior High School, for their cooperation and efforts in encouraging pupils to enter the contest. She also expressed special appreciation for work accomplished by Mrs. Moser in the project.

Cash prizes were donated by Shovel Tree and Landscaping Service, Saugerties. Village Board and the Woman's Club of Saugerties, and the Public Affairs Department expressed gratitude for their support.

Cementon Stages Upset of Season In Semi-Finals

Cementon, which has ended up in fifth place in seasonal play in the Saugerties Dartball League, came on strong in its first semi-finals competition in local annuals Monday night to upset the hopes and the apocryph of third place Quarryville. Cementon staged a dartballing spree that saw Quarrymen defeated in two out of three encounters.

The men from Cementon who won the first game by a top heavy score of 20-12 and took the third and last game by a tally of 9-5. Quarryville barely managed to squeak by in the second game; pulled it out of the fire by edging the opposition, 14-13.

High average for Cementon was rolled up by Peter Deley, who came through with 12 hits for 14 times at bat. Cementon's RBI champ was Adam Gage, who got credit for 10 runs batted in.

Donald Walsh had the high average of the night for Quarryville, scoring 11 hits in 16 trips to the plate. Robert O'Connor, with nine runs batted in, was Quarryville's man of the hour in this division.

The season will come to a close next week when the World Series and annual banquet take place on Monday, April 17, at 6:30 p. m. at the High Woods Sportsmen's Club. Series play will see the pennant winner, Trinity, meeting the Cinderella team, Cementon, just crowned as play-off champs. The program of the evening will see the presentation of the league trophy, one of the most impressive looking of its kind awarded in this area annually.

A friend of mine, who is about 25 pounds overweight, went to his physician for some reducing advice. He wrote out a prescription and also gave him a bottle of "little blue pills." "These are not to be swallowed," he directed the patient. "Spill them on the floor several times a day and then pick them up."

Why We Say--

NAPKIN

In the 1890's the bigger the napkin used at a meal, the more important it was. Napkin actually came from the Old French word "nappe" for tablecloth.

Spring: Comes after winter. Comes before summer. Parallels autumn.

Spring: Called a happy death. Called a new birth. Forebushes equilibrium.

Spring: Brings life. Brings death. Vocalizes inevitability.

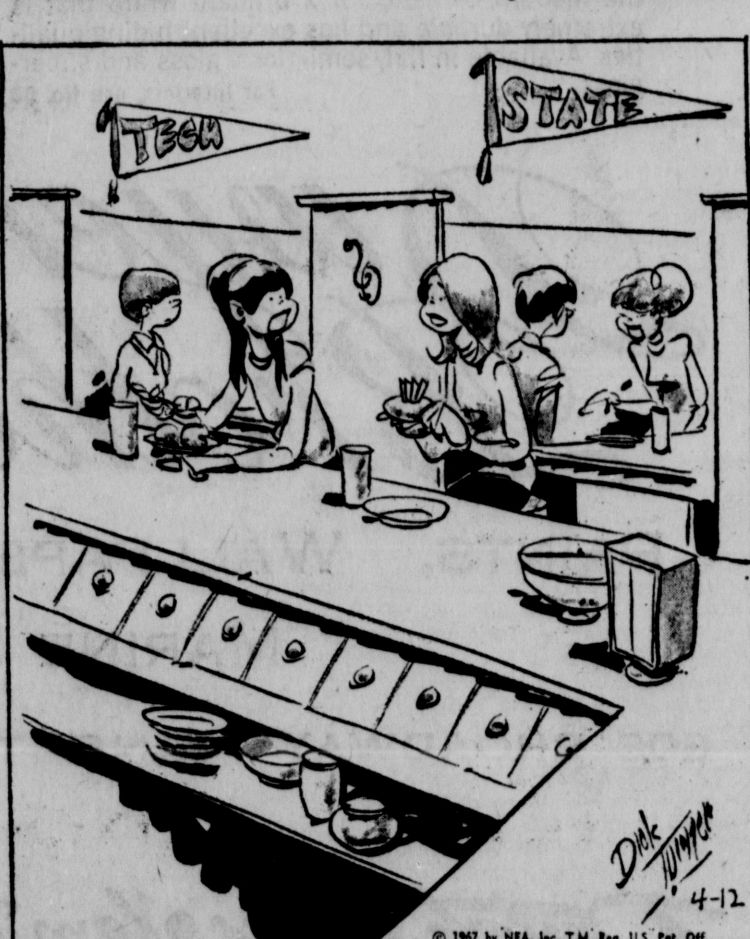

Spring: Invokes spirit. Invokes inspiration. Warns of melancholy.

Spring: Will always come. Will always go. Will always parallel, foreshadow, vocalize, warn.

Questions

QUESTION: Almost every day lately I've read of increases in nurse's salaries and hospital rates and I would like to know if this will result in an increase in auto liability insurance rates?
ANSWER: Since hospital and medical costs are factors in determining insurance rates it seems safe to predict that insurance premiums will increase unless the number of accidents can somehow be reduced.

This public service is our way of advertising. Your insurance questions will be answered without charge or obligation if you'll send or bring them to

TV Back To Normal

By JOHN VINOCUR

NEW YORK (AP) — "Good evening, this is Walter Cronkite, sitting in for Arnold Zenker. It's good to be back."

The picture was in focus, the sound matched up with the video, and the old familiar voices were telling again how it was or seemed to be around the world.

Thanks to Replacement

With the 13-day strike of the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists at an end, the Cronkites, Brinkleys and Jennings returned to the air with thanks for the men like Zenker, a CBS executive, who replaced them. Back too were live soap operas and network variety and talk shows.

David Brinkley's reunion on NBC with colleague Chet Huntley, who continued broadcasting during the strike, passed without any mention of his fortnight at home.

But before their news show went on, Brinkley said from Washington, "How are you? I guess we're really going to do it. I was ready last night. The union wasn't."

Then he told his partner about receiving a pay check for $11.90 last week. "It was really for $115," he said. "They deducted $104. I guess that was for unemployment."

Blazer Is Back

ABC's Peter Jennings was back with a double-breasted blazer and a thank you for his fill-in, producer Darryl Griffin.

The strike's major casualty, Johnny Carson, recalcitrant star of the "Tonight" show, stayed away from the cameras and re-emphasized his decision to quit NBC.

"My contract is terminated," he said. "As far as I'm concerned I'm no longer an NBC employee and that's where it sits. I consider myself a free agent." The network continued to insist that it expects him back.

Carson's temporary replacement on the chatter show, Jimmy Dean joked "It's nice to be here amid all this hostility."

McGinn Ends Training

Marine Private John B. McGinn, son of Mrs. Betty J. McGinn of Modena, was graduated from eight weeks of recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S. C. He will now undergo about three weeks of individual combat training and then, after leave at home, will report to his first Marine Corps assignment.

Upstate Cop Indicted

JOHNSTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—A Gloversville policeman has been indicted by a Fulton County grand jury on three charges, including solicitation for immoral purposes.

The indictment was returned Tuesday against Paul Rowley, 36, who pleaded innocent to the charges before Justice D. Vincent Cerrito. Rowley was released in $1,000 bail.

The other charges are second-degree grand larceny and two counts of conspiracy. The details of the charges were not made public.

The case was turned over to the district attorney's office after Rowley was suspended for up to 30 days without pay March 24 by Mayor Richard Hood and three members of the Common Council. They called for Rowley's suspension for the "preservation of good order, efficiency and discipline in the department."

March Deposits Reach Record In Savings Banks

The net deposit inflow this March was the highest for any March for the 126 savings banks of New York State, the Savings Banks Association of New York State reported today.

The net increase in regular deposits was $160,281,000, compared to a net outflow of $61,956,000 in March last year. The total amount due depositors at the end of March 1967 was $33,176,000,000 or 7.4 per cent above that of March 31, 1966.

In commenting upon the continued deposit inflow into savings banks, Dr. Austin S. Murphy, managing director of the Association, said "This inflow reflects the confidence in savings banks in a time counter to our usual experience. The inflow of deposits to savings banks has been accompanied by a strong rise in security prices. The public appears to be reacting to a slowdown in business activity. The stock market seems to expect inflationary countermeasures to prevail."

A record 1967 first quarter in interest - dividends credited amounted to $396,431,000. This figure is $65,692,000 higher than the amount credited to depositor's accounts in the first quarter of 1966.
